

Erhard to Ask LBJ To Postpone Sale Of Military Wares

Economic Woes Cause Germans
To Request Delay of Purchase

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard conferred with President Johnson today amid reports the chancellor would seek postponement of an arms purchase agreement.

Erhard went to the White House from a State Department meeting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The chancellor, who arrived in Washington Saturday, entered the White House through an entrance out of sight of newsmen.

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said the unusual practice had no significance "except to keep the visit informal."

Sunday Conference
Erhard reportedly planned to ask Johnson to postpone Bonn's agreement to buy $1.35 billion worth of U.S. military equipment in the two years ending next June 30.

Sunday, Erhard conferred with Rusk and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

The chancellor reportedly told the U.S. officials that West Germany is unable to pay more than 50 per cent of the $675 million obligation each year to help defray the cost of keeping 200,000 troops of the U.S. 7th Army in Germany.

Other Topics
Rusk, who returned Sunday from a week of talks with foreign ministers at the United Nations, was to join the President in the talks today and Tuesday with Erhard and members of his government.

Other topics to be discussed include sharing of nuclear weapons and cooperative U.S.-West German space ventures.

Informants said Sunday night that West Germany will have placed orders worth about half of the two-year obligation by the end of the year but will ask for additional time to place the remainder.

Gemini Team Gives Details Of Space Shot

Gordon Says He Was Tired Before Taking Space Walk

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Gemini 11 spacewalker Richard Gordon revealed today he was "tired and had a pretty high heart rate" even before he left the spaceship to take his shortened stroll in orbit.

And, he said, what he thought would be a 30-second task of tying Gemini 11 to an Agena with a 100-foot cord turned out to be "a monumental task of about 30 minutes."

Gordon's walk in space during the record-smashing flight of Gemini 11 was eventually cut short because he worked so hard sweat poured down his face into his eyes.

Ready Early
He told a news conference that he and his flying partner, Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., got about two hours ahead of time in preparations for the stroll the second day aloft and even considered asking officials to let Gordon begin one orbit early.

"So essentially I was setting there with no cooling," Gordon said, noting that he was already bundled up, just waiting, in his bulky spacesuit. At this point we were off the spaceship's coolant system, and the pressure suit environment system was not yet turned on.

They stopped the preparations and Gordon went back to the spacecraft system for cooling.

As a result, he said, "I was tired and had a pretty high heart rate before we opened the hatch."

Tied Agena
Gordon said he really got tired while straddling the nose of the Gemini 11 while it was linked to an Agena rocket they had captured in the world's quickest rendezvous. He looped the cord from the Agena to the Gemini for a later formation-flight experiment.

He called this the "biggest shock of my life."

Gordon explained that in simulations on earth he could do the experiment in about 30 seconds.

Death Toll Rising in Wake of Typhoon Ida

Rescue Workers Search Ruins of wrecked homes for dead and injured at Saiko village near Mt. Fuji south of Tokyo, after murderous Typhoon Ida struck Japan Sunday. Saiko village was swept up in a sea of mud set off by Ida's 200-mile-an-hour winds and torrential rains. The landslide splintered homes and buried villagers as they slept. More than 300 are dead or missing. (AP Wirephoto)

Japanese Hit Hardest Since 1959

TOKYO (AP) — Hundreds of police and soldiers were pressed into disaster duty today to clean up the debris, restore communications and dig out the dead from the worst typhoon to hit Japan in seven years.

Typhoon Ida smashed into the heartland of Japan, the Tokyo and Mt. Fuji area, early Sunday while Typhoon Helen was still beating southern Japan with less ferocity.

National Police headquarters said the latest count was 197 dead, 123 missing and nearly 1,000 injured. Damage to U.S. military installations was estimated at more than $6 million.

Damage $300 Million
Government officials estimated Japanese damage at more than $300 million.

It was the highest typhoon casualty toll since 5,041 died near Nagoya on Sept. 26, 1959.

U.S. Army headquarters said no Americans were badly injured.

A third big typhoon, June, was churning in the Pacific. Weathermen said it might approach Japan Thursday if it stays on its present course.

The weekend typhoons, and particularly Ida, caused multimillion-dollar damage, including 60 per cent of the pear and grape crops in Yamanashi Prefecture, site of Mt. Fuji.

Salty rain carried by the typhoon also did widespread damage to harvests.

Ida hurled the most violent winds ever recorded by Japanese weathermen — 202-mile gusts — at the top of Mt. Fuji.

U.S. Bombs Silence Antiaircraft Guns

American Fliers Also Attack
SAM Sites Near Red Capital

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. bomber pilots reported silencing 10 antiaircraft gun positions in North Viet Nam Sunday along a main rail line to Communist China.

During 127 bombing raids in the North, U.S. fliers also attacked four surface-to-air missile sites including one only nine miles northeast of Hanoi. Navy attack bombers reported destroying a North Vietnamese torpedo boat 50 miles northeast of Haiphong in the Tonkin Gulf.

Ground fighting in South Viet Nam dwindled to small and scattered actions after a weekend in which U.S., South Vietnamese and Korean forces reported nearly 350 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed.

U.S. Plane Downed
During the raids over the North, a U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down and the pilot is missing. It was the 386th plane reported lost in the war over North Viet Nam.

The antiaircraft gun positions knocked out by Air Force Thunderchiefs were part of a chain protecting the northeast rail artery 50 to 55 miles northeast of the Red capital, a U.S. spokesman said.

Navy planes from the aircraft carrier Coral Sea attacked three SAM sites in the Thanh Hoa and, and the spokesman said, they heavily damaged all three. The fourth missile site, nine miles from Hanoi, was pounded by Air Force bombers.

Fight Saturday
U.S. Marines operating near the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam reported a possible kill of 60 North Vietnamese army regulars in a fierce fight Saturday. The Leathernecks were hard hit themselves, reporting moderate casualties.

Malaysian Official

Asks U.N. to Help Start Peace Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The deputy prime minister of Malaysia asked all other U.N. members today to help get a peace conference of "the immediate parties" to the war in Viet Nam.

Speaking in the assembly's general debate, Abdul Razak continue as U.N. secretary-general, hailed the recent end of Indonesia's war against Malaysia, and welcomed Indonesia's impending return to the United Nations.

Deploing Communist China's demands for a reorganized United Nations, Razak said Formosa "should be allowed to remain a member of the United Nations while mainland China could be admitted to this organization if she so agrees."

"To us in Southeast Asia," he declared, "the Viet Nam conflict poses a real and proximate threat to the peace, progress, safety and security of the whole region."

Razak said Malaysia would "continue to take every necessary and appropriate initiative open to it on a comprehensive all-Asian basis to seek an Asian solution to the problem."

"It should be left to the parties involved to find a formula to solve their problems and our efforts should be directed solely to bringing them together, not to suggest, much less impose, a solution," Razak said.

Razak, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand and Philippine Foreign Secretary Narciso Ramos last month invited 17 Asian countries to make a joint appeal to the warring forces in Viet Nam for a peaceful and honorable settlement reached at an Asian conference.

South Viet Nam endorsed the peace move, North Viet Nam and Communist China rejected it.

STEVENS POINT (AP) — Sgt. Gerald G. Bannach, 26, was killed in action Saturday in Viet Nam. Bannach, who had been in Viet Nam since last May, was a member of the 101st Airborne Division.

His mother, Mrs. Rose Bannach of Stevens Point, and his wife and two children, of Olitawa, Ill., have been notified of his death.

Admissions Triple in 8 Years

State Correctional Institutions for Juvenile Delinquents Overflowing

By JOHN KEEFE
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP) — Juvenile delinquents in Wisconsin don't have to break out of state training schools. They're being pushed out.

"We're reaching a point where for every boy we get in, we have to let one out," said Sanger Powers, director of the division of corrections of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Powers said the department is asking for two new boys institutions in the next two years — both to be located in southeastern Wisconsin — that were not planned two years ago.

Admissions Triple
The number of admissions to the present two boys schools at Wales and Kettle Moraine has more than tripled in the past eight years, forcing the delinquents to spend far less time in the rehabilitation programs than administrators think is necessary.

"The kids are not really ready to go," said Powers, "but they're being pushed out by admissions over which the state has no control."

Counties in Wisconsin have no correctional facilities for juveniles, and so those taken out of their homes must go to the state training schools, or in more serious cases, to state reformatories.

One of the department's proposed projects that wasn't even included in a six-year plan two years ago is an $11 million, 600-bed institution for youthful offenders 16-21 years old.

A 287-bed training school for boys, originally scheduled for 1967-71, has been advanced to the coming biennium because of the growing crush on the department.

The rising admissions might

Man Believed Not Tied With Chicago Slaying

KEWAUNEE — A Minnesota man being questioned about burglaries apparently had no association with the slaying of Valerie Percy, authorities here say.

Local authorities contacted investigators in Cook County, Ill., Saturday after questioning Patrick Fred Scott, 26, who was to appear in court today on a burglary count.

Sheriff Darwin Legois said Scott had indicated "he had something to say about the slaying," but "investigation leads us to doubt there is any association."

Seek 19-Year-Old
Meanwhile, in Kenilworth, Ill., the Chicago suburb where the 21-year-old girl was slain as she slept, police were seeking a 19-year-old youth for questioning.

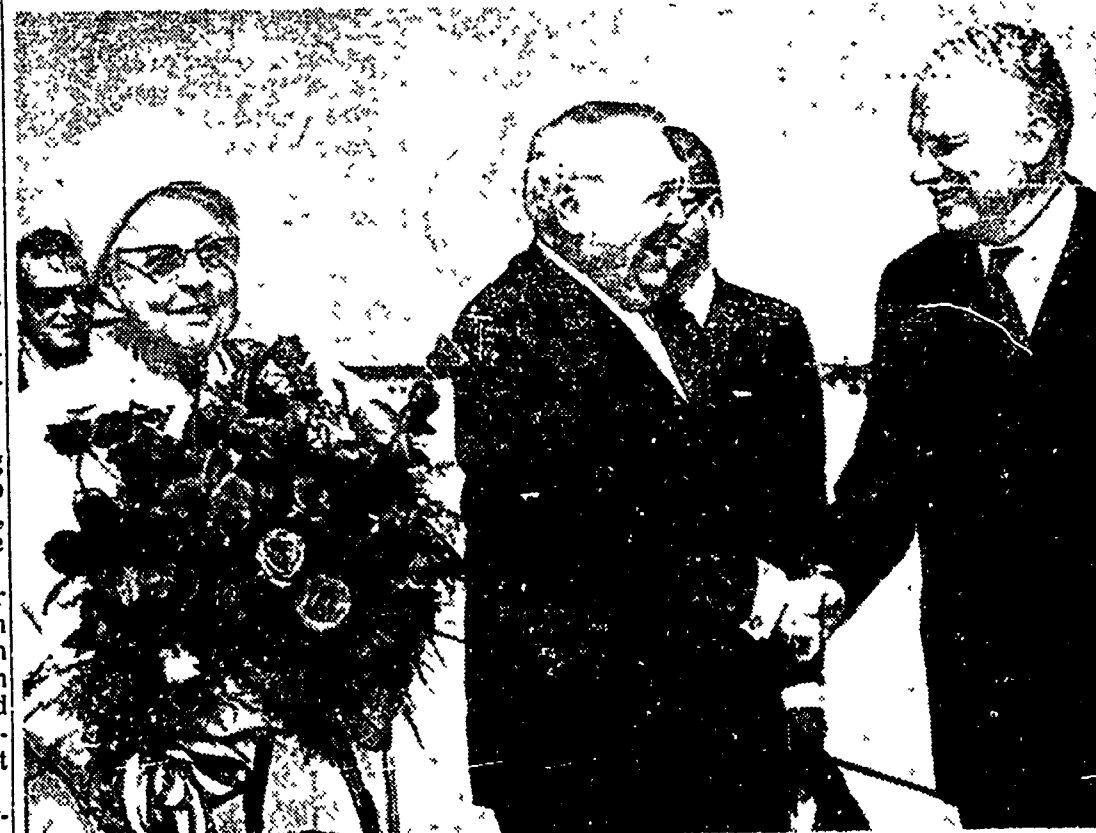

Investigators beefed up their forces for a long investigation. The investigation "is going to take a long time," said Kenilworth Police Chief Robert M. Daley. He said state troopers had joined his 11-man force trying to track down the slayer of Miss Percy, 21, daughter of Charles H. Percy, GOP nominee for the U. S. Senate from Illinois.

Also taking part in the investigation are state's attorney's police, Cook County sheriff's police, Chicago crime laboratory and identification technicians and FBI agents.

Spoke to Girl
Police sought for questioning a youth about 19 who spoke to Valerie and her twin sister, Sharon, some 30 hours before Valerie was killed.

Police said the girls sat near the youth in an elevated train car as they returned home from their father's Chicago campaign headquarters. They quoted Sharon as saying her sister introduced the youth by his first name only.

Sharon told police the conversation then ended. She said the youth transferred trains with them and got off at their stop, walked behind them a short distance and then took another path.

Center of Controversy

Reporter Finds Indians In Mexico Starving

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Tarahumara Indians of Mexico are the center of controversy. Louisiana citizens have sent relief supplies to them, based on reports the Indians are starving. The Mexican government, refusing entry to 10 carloads of the supplies, says the reports are exaggerated. El Paso, Tex., Times reporter Bruce Bissonette visited some of the Indians. Here is his story.

By BRUCE BISSONETTE
El Paso Times Writer

CREEL, Chihuahua, Mexico (AP) — Indians are suffering from starvation in Chihuahua. A child or two dies each day.

With a show-me attitude about the Mexican government denials of starvation among the Tarahumara Indians of Chihuahua, we flew Sunday into the vast stretches of the Barranca del Cobre canyons of the Sierra Madre Mountains. We went to the villages of Sisoguichi and Creel.

Visited Priests
We visited with the Jesuit priests who devote their lives to the betterment of these Indians.

Among them is Father Luis G. Verplancken — at whose request Louisiana citizens generously donated 10 railroad carloads of food, tools, medical supplies and agricultural equipment for the Indians.

But the Mexican government has refused to grant permission for the shipment to enter Mexico from El Paso, Tex., where the cars have been sitting on a siding since Saturday.

Father Verplancken, kind and soft-spoken, was emphatic in his denial of reports that from 100-200 Indians a day are dying of starvation.

He was just as emphatic, however, in declaring that a "terrible situation exists" among 50,000 Indians who live in the rugged wilderness.

Short of Food
"He said the current situation is 'no different than it has been in other years.' Whenever a drought occurs the Indians are hard pressed for seed the following year and are also short of food themselves, Father Verplancken said.

"Last year," he said, "we had a drought and the crops were almost nonexistent. This year we had an abundance of rain, in fact, too much and the crops which were already short planted because of a lack of seed, rotted in the fields."

Institutions Work Resumes In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Strike fever waned and the hectic temperature of emergency health services drifted back to normal today in Milwaukee County's hospitals system.

Orval H. Guenther, director of the institutions, said a meeting was planned concerning a "possibility of disciplinary action" against employees who initiated a walkout Thursday.

The strike began breaking up late Saturday after a Circuit Court judge issued an order to resume work. He scheduled a hearing for Wednesday for union officials to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt for allegedly ignoring a temporary injunction issued Thursday.

The system said it was forced to limit many hospital services to emergency cases, close some clinics and reduce mental health center services.

The work stoppage by Local 1055 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees affected an estimated 2,000 union members.

The union had said the walk-out reflected objections to the system's refusal to negotiate the disciplinary suspensions of three employees.

Peace Still Elusive
Despite Many Efforts

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Peace is our passion," President Johnson said more than a year ago, talking about Viet Nam. But it has been a bleak pursuit. Peace is still as elusive as a mouse on a beach.

Things perked up, in bits and pieces, getting nowhere back in 1965 which was a very busy year for empty peace talk.

In March of that year Johnson said the North Vietnamese must stop their intervention in South Viet Nam as a precondition for peace negotiations.

And Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the North Vietnamese would have to give some indication they were prepared to stop what they were doing before any peace talks could begin.

Unconditional Talks
Then on April 7 in a major speech Johnson said the United States was ready for unconditional talks with North Viet Nam but at the very moment he was saying it he laid down conditions.

He said the essentials of any final settlement were "an independent South Viet Nam, securely guaranteed and able to shape its own relationships to all others, free from any outside interference, tied to no alliance, a military base for no country."

The North Vietnamese gave this the ha-ha. They said Johnson's proposal smelled of poison gas and made a proposal of their own, a four-point program, from which they haven't deviated an inch since.

Troop Withdrawal
Among other things, Hanoi said, the United States must withdraw all its forces from South Viet Nam, although it wasn't clear whether the Communists meant before peace talks began or before there could be a settlement.

And the third of the four points was a dilly: Hanoi said the internal affairs of South Viet Nam must be settled by the South Vietnamese people themselves in accordance with the program of the Viet Cong whom the South Vietnamese were fighting because they didn't want a Viet Cong program.

The U.S. State Department immediately took a dim view of Hanoi's ideas. At the moment, it seemed, sitting down to talk peace with the Viet Cong looked unthinkable, which is about what Hanoi was demanding.

But later Rusk said the United States would be willing to hold discussions with the Viet Cong but those guerrillas could not be a primary part in negotiations. As time passed the American attitude on this changed.

Johnson said later this would not be an insurmountable problem. But nothing happened. Then late last year Johnson suspended the bombing of North Viet Nam targets while he sent his top emissaries to capitals around the world, talking peace. But the North Vietnamese didn't talk back.

Bombing Resumed
And on Jan. 31, 1966, after a 36-day pause, Johnson ordered the bombing resumed. Later in the year he ordered the bombing stepped up, this time against North Viet Nam's oil depots. The pressure on him to find peace became intense.

For one thing, much of the world didn't like the war. A lot of Americans didn't like it. And the war was gorging itself on billions of American dollars which could be used at home.

Last week U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, made a plea for peace before that body and a couple of days later Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, made a proposal.

As a preliminary to negotiations, he said, the United States would stop bombing the North if it just got assurance that North Viet Nam would start cutting down on its war effort.

This looked like another American concession. Instead of wanting proof that North Viet Nam would pull back its troops if the United States stopped bombing, this country was willing to settle for assurances — although it wouldn't take long to find out if North Viet Nam was living up to its assurances.

But Russia quickly brushed this proposal aside. And North Viet Nam rejected it as hypocritical.

To Your Good Health
Stroke Victim Lonely
Because of Disability

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Within the last year, I had two strokes a month apart. I recovered quickly from the first. With the second I was not so lucky.

This one affected my speech and my left side. I think I could cope with it if I could only talk.

When you can't talk, people have a tendency to treat you as if you were simple-minded. I am so lonesome. I feel like I am not making progress. I am 39. — Mrs. B.J.

Dr. Molner
What needless pain we sometimes cause our fellow creatures!

Some of us do not know, and some of us forget, what a stroke usually does. An arm or a leg or side may be paralyzed, depending on which part of the brain is affected by the stroke. Or at times muscles of the face and throat may be paralyzed so that speech becomes impossible.

As a rule a stroke does not affect hearing, vision or intelligence.

A paralyzed leg or arm we can understand. But when the power of speech is lost, for some reason we jump to the false conclusion that the patient cannot hear or cannot understand, and the consequence is unconscious cruelty.

I have seen stroke patients become annoyed and upset at their inability to express in words what they want, how they feel, or where they may be uncomfortable. It is painful to watch their struggles to express themselves. How much worse for them! And how much still worse when, as with Mrs. B.J., the situation is completely misunderstood and the patient is condemned to loneliness.

In most rehabilitation centers there are speech therapists trained to help stroke patients recover some degree of self-expression if the paralysis is not too extreme.

There are also cases in which patients can speak, but because of some cross-circuiting of the motor control system, they try to say a certain word but a quite different one is spoken, to their utter frustration.

Yet the patients hear and understand.

People should remember not to condemn such sufferers to a cell of lonely ostracism.

Dear Dr. Molner: I work until 11 p.m. five days a week. When I get home I can't sleep and I stay up until 3 or 4 a.m. Is this harmful? — J.P.

If you get adequate sleep (about 8 hours for most of us) it doesn't matter when. It's reasonable that you would want to relax a few hours before going to sleep.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 19-year-old daughter has a growth under her foot. The doctor says it is a plantar wart. She is taking X-ray treatments. I never heard of this. Can you explain it? — Mrs. N.O.

Plantar means it's a wart that grows on the plantar or sole portion of the foot. Such warts can be quite stubborn and, because of their location, painful.

Treatment varies sharply among medical people. Some doctors prefer to pare them down; others prefer X-ray.

The warts are believed to be caused by a virus, so the patient should wear slippers or clogs around the house, and not to go barefoot over rugs or bathroom floors. This will prevent the risk of passing the virus on to others.

Plantar warts are a nuisance but not dangerous.

Free Nations Lagging in Aid For Undeveloped Countries

World Bank President Points to Shortage of Funds, Tight Money

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — George D. Woods, World Bank president, said today that non-Communist nations face a crucial financial gap in efforts to help undeveloped countries.

He told a joint meeting of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank that the bank's two affiliates are running low on funds. He said the bank itself is feeling the pinch of tight money and high interest rates in the industrial countries.

"A banker without money is like a doctor without pills," Woods said.

Woods also noted a slowdown in foreign aid from industrial nations and said that as a proportion of income, such aid declined during 1965 for the fifth straight year.

World Affairs

"At what ought to be a propitious moment in economic development, we are slowing down," Woods said. If allowed to continue, the slowdown can result only in a deterioration in world affairs, he added.

His prepared talk to the IMF-World Bank annual meeting came a day after the bank, in an annual report, said aid from the industrial to the developing nations has remained virtually unchanged for five years.

The report urged industrial nations to give high priority to foreign aid even when faced with economic ills at home.

Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the 104-nation fund, said in another prepared talk that stagnation of aid from industrial nations is of "the gravest concern" in view of the sheer immensity of the problems and needs of the developing world.

Schweitzer also said the industrial nations have hardened their aid terms and the volume of private capital to developing nations has increased relatively little over the past few years.

Woods said the International Finance Corp., one world bank affiliate, now has only $15 million left to lend while the other affiliate, the International Development Association, is down to $110 million and will soon be unable to undertake any new commitments.

Present plans call for replenishment of both funds from bank resources but Woods said high interest rates have placed a pinch on borrowings by the bank, especially in the United States and Canada.

Bank loans now carry a 6 percent interest rate, established last February, but still under the maximum 6 1/2 percent rate in effect briefly during 1960.

Woods said he expects to review the interest rate question with his executive directors soon.

Sunday night, the group of 10 ministers of the largest industrial nations reaffirmed their previous commitments to work for reform within a wider framework of the fund.

3 Questioned In Milwaukee NAACP Blast

One Identified as Grand Dragon of Illinois Ku Klux Klan

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Three men, one of them identified as a Ku Klux Klan leader, were questioned Sunday about explosions including one which damaged the Milwaukee office of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Aug. 9.

The men, two from Milwaukee and one from Illinois, were named in warrants issued by Milwaukee County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr.

The warrants concern what police call bombings of the NAACP office and a store dealing in floor coverings.

Turner Cheney, 36, of Winthrop Harbor, Ill., was arrested at his home Sunday on one of the warrants. Lake County, Ill., authorities identified him as a grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan.

Arson Charge

He was charged with arson of a building. The charge reflects a July 1 explosion at an Allied Linoleum store.

Robert C. Schmidt, 41, Milwaukee, was charged with damaging property by means of explosives in the July 1 incident and the NAACP explosion.

Roger W. Long, 25, Milwaukee, was charged in the August blast.

The linoleum store was operated by John Gilman, an official of the former Wisconsin Civil Rights Congress. Gilman moved to another business site after the explosion.

There were no injuries in either explosion. The NAACP office was damaged while the group's Milwaukee Youth council was sponsoring a series of civil rights demonstrations that began in suburban Wauwatosa.

The series of nightly marches, currently suspended while issues are negotiated by a state-selected mediator, was aimed at encouraging prominent members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles to quit the club in protest of allegedly segregated membership policies.

AMC Resumes Work After Wildcat Strike

Union-Management Talks Will Consider Reasons for Walkout

MILWAUKEE (AP) — American Motors Corp. resumed production today marking the end of the longest unauthorized walkout in the firm's 12-year history.

A meeting between management and union spokesmen was scheduled today to discuss issues that triggered the work stoppage.

The strike lasted nearly four days despite appeals and orders from United Auto Workers' officials for a work resumption. UAW local 75 voted Saturday to end the walkout.

The strike affected most of the 5,200 employees of the AMC Milwaukee body plant, and led to layoffs for more than 2,500 workers at the firm's Kenosha assembly plant.

Management said Kenosha workers would be recalled as shipments from Milwaukee to Kenosha resume.

Work Loads

Increased work loads and disciplinary measures against some union employees were given by strikers as reasons for the walkout.

The work stoppage was accompanied by a walkout in Brampton, Ont., Tuesday of 1,450 AMC workers concerning another issues.

A small section of track on a Canadian National Railways spur line serving the Brampton plant was blown up Sunday. Police said two empty boxcars passing over the explosion were not seriously damaged.

The Brampton issue involves a strikers' complaint that management hires outside workers for new jobs instead of offering them to employees.

U.S. Not After Bomber Bases In Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Premier Thanom Kittikachorn said today that the United States has not approached his government about the stationing of long-range B52 bombers in Thailand.

Thanom was asked at his weekly press conference to comment on reports from Washington that President Johnson might shift the B52s from Guam to the Sattahip airbase on the Gulf of Thailand 100 miles south of Bangkok.

The premier affirmed that there are no B52s now in Thailand and the only transfer of planes to Sattahip which U.S. and Thai officials had discussed were U.S. Air Force jets based on four other congested bases in Thailand.

Other officials said the United States would want to get Thailand's approval before stationing the big bombers at the 11,500-foot Sattahip airbase, whose runway is the only one in South East Asia long enough for the B52s.

The officials emphasized that Thailand and the United States would have to consider jointly the implications of transfer of the B52s from all angles, political as well as military.

The United States has several squadrons of F105 Thunderchiefs and F4C Phantoms at bases in Thailand which fly bombing missions over North Viet Nam.

4-Nation Force Considered as Troop Block

Communist Troops Continue to Use Demilitarized Zone

DONG HA, South Viet Nam (AP) — American officers believe a four-nation blocking force is the best way to stop Communist troop infiltration across the demilitarized zone into South Viet Nam.

U.S. sources say the idea is being considered on the highest American levels but the three other governments must also approve.

The force would include Korean and Australian troops as well as South Vietnamese units and U.S. Marines already deployed in the northern part of South Viet Nam.

Communist infiltration across the demilitarized zone between the two Viet Nams has become a major problem for U.S. and South Vietnamese forces.

Military sources indicate an effective force would need to total at least three regiments and possibly four — between 10,000 and 16,000 men.

The South Vietnamese already have one regiment in the area and the American Marines lack only one battalion of having two regiments.

The Koreans and Australians probably could furnish only token forces, possibly a battalion or less each, because of assignments elsewhere in the country.

The American, Korean and Australian units would not cross into the buffer zone which flanks the river that is the actual dividing line between North and South Viet Nam. They would remain just south of the no-man's land created by the 1954 Geneva agreement which divided Viet Nam. But Communist intrusions into the zone from the North would give the South Vietnamese an excuse for occasional sweeps along the south side of the river.

'President More Mature' Humphrey Compares Johnson, Bob Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey spoke about U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy today as he began a tour of California.

Comparing President Johnson with Kennedy, the vice president said: "President Johnson's view taped for release in little more responsible, a little more in the public interest."

Humphrey talked about Kennedy and his own political future on a television news interview taped for release in Southern California tonight.

It began a two-day tour of the state in which he planned to visit federal installations and help Democratic candidates, including Gov. Edmund G. Brown in his race against Republican Ronald Reagan.

Humphrey took an optimistic look at his own chances for sharing the 1968 presidential ticket with Johnson.

Asked if the President had promised him a place on the ticket, Humphrey said: "In the realities of politics, the President is required to have an opinion. I don't know who he will want as his running mate. I'll give him the full measure of devotion and if I do that, you'll find the President won't be dissatisfied with me and we'll be walking side by side for many months and years."

Humphrey also said the war in Viet Nam will continue "for some time." He said financing the conflict is "not beyond the means of the economy by a long shot."

The war, he said, takes a smaller slice of the gross national product than the Korean conflict and "I do not think you can say it is beyond the means of the economy to bear if we use restraint."

Some windows were broken and a dozen automobiles were stoned Sunday night as crowds of Negroes gathered at the approach of Warren Folks, a Jacksonville barber and militant segregationist, and 11 followers.

Folks and his group, which included two women, carried placards that criticized integration of a city swimming pool and assignment of Negro policemen to downtown beats.

Goldwater Warns Against Birchers

Says Ultraconservatives Can't Get Republican Candidates Elected

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Barry Goldwater, in an attack at The John Birch Society, has warned Republicans to keep the ultraconservative group away from power in the party.

"I tell you, the worst job of politics is done in districts run by the Birch people," Goldwater said Sunday in an interview with Don Bolles of the Arizona Republic.

"If you gave them control of the state organization, you wouldn't have a Republican candidate elected in this state."

The former U.S. senator, his party's nominee for president in 1964, spoke on the eve of Arizona's Republican state convention in Phoenix today.

Possible Opposition

Harry Rosenzweig, a lifelong friend of Goldwater, was unopposed for re-election as state chairman. There were reports that John Birch members might try to oust Rosenzweig, but Goldwater said "I don't think they have the strength."

Last Friday, at suburban Mesa, Charles Miller was re-elected Maricopa (Phoenix) County chairman in a close contest with a retired Chicago executive reported to have had Goldwater's backing.

Goldwater charged members of the Birch Society controlled that election. "They were interested only in one person gaining control over another," Goldwater said. "It was mostly Birchers there."

Birchers Silent

There was no public reaction to Goldwater's remarks from spokesmen for The John Birch Society.

However, Miller's campaign manager disputed the view of Goldwater and said "it sounds like he is concerned about whether he is still in control of the party in this state."

"The party workers tried to come out of this with a strong united party dedicated to electing good candidates without regard to which side voted for whom," State Rep. David Kret said.

Kret said he has never been associated with The John Birch Society and that Miller resigned from membership more than five years ago.

Laird Charges Credibility Gap Shows Again

Government Seeks $15 Billion More For Viet Nam

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Marshfield, struck another nail in his party platform when he disclosed in reports over the weekend that the administration would ask for $15 billion in addition to the $58 billion already approved to continue the war in Viet Nam.

For the past 12 months the Wisconsin congressmen, who also is chairman of the House Republican Conference, has been heckling the Johnson administration on what Laird calls the "credibility gap" on the cost of the Vietnamese war.

In January when budget estimates were submitted to finance the war for the present fiscal year which ends June 30, 1967, Laird charged the $58 billion figure "unrealistic." He predicted before Congress convened this year, the Department of Defense officials would come back to Capitol Hill, to ask for further funds, from $10 to $15 billion, to finance the war.

Predicts Increase

A top member of the House Appropriations Sub-Committee which met last week, said Laird's hearing indicated that not only $15 billion would be requested but also that increased number of U.S. troops would be sent into the delta area. This would bring spending of the war to $2.5 billion a month, he figured.

Laird's estimates, he said, were based on experts figures from the appropriations committee and from the Treasury Department's latest figures of actual defense expenditures. The combination of these figures was projected into the full year which comes out to about $2 billion a month, according to Laird.

Laird had consistently criticized the administration for not being perfectly frank about the cost of the war and the amount of troops United States would send into the Vietnamese area.

An administration spokesman who was questioned over the weekend about Laird's charges was reported to neither confirm or deny them.

Toy Gun Scares Off Wouldbe Holdup Man

RESEDA, Calif. (AP)—Leonard Becker had rung up the sale of a bottle of gin and two packs of cigarettes when his customer drew a gun and ordered, "Give me all your bills."

Becker, 57, reached into his trouser pocket Sunday, saying, "I have a gun, too. Start shooting." The liquor store clerk produced what appeared to be a pistol.

The robber backed slowly toward the door.

"Be careful, be careful," the robber implored as he fumbled with the door catch. Dropping his cigarettes, he fled.

Becker set down his weapon—a plastic cigar case.

Wisconsin Republicans Fail to Curb Spending

House Approves Appropriations in Excess Of $8 Billion During First Nine Months

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Efforts of Wisconsin Republicans to reduce government spending went down the drain last week as the House approved two appropriations bills authorizing a total expenditure of more than $8 billion during the next nine months.

One House member from the Badger State, Rep. Glenn R. Davis, R-New Berlin, even went so far as to introduce 12 amendments to the omnibus public works appropriations bill, which would have reduced it by about $300 million from its total of some $4 billion, but he failed in each attempt.

This measure, sometimes described as a "pork barrel" bill, carried funds for construction and plans and surveys of all civil functions including flood control projects, and rivers and harbors improvements. The Davis amendments were defeated by unrecorded votes, but three Badger State Republicans were among the 25 recorded against it. Besides Davis, those were Reps. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay and Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield, both of whom have been crying for "restraint" in government spending for more than a year.

Joining with the 354 representatives who voted for the measure were Lynn F. Stalbaum, Racine; Robert W. Kasstetter, Watertown; Clement J. Zablocki and Henry S. Reuss, both of Milwaukee; John A. Race, Fond du Lac, all Demo-

Red China and the U.N. Again

There is a paucity of creative thought in what apparently will be the Johnson Administration's policy on the admission of Communist China to the United Nations. The issue is slated to come up in the opening days of the convening of the General Assembly.

In part the chances that the Assembly would vote such membership depends upon whether the Assembly decides that such admission is a "matter of importance." A simple majority vote determines the status of the admissions vote. If it is deemed "a matter of importance" a two-thirds vote of the Assembly is necessary for passage. But if enough members have changed their minds since last year so that they will vote that China's admission is not a "matter of importance," they can pave the way to admission without actually voting for it on the last ballot.

Currently the official United States stand is simply and unalterably opposed to the admission of Red China coupled with a belief that Peking wouldn't accept anyway unless Nationalist China were evicted. But while it is obvious that China is no peace-loving nation according to U.N. definition, the American stand at this point merely hardens the lines. There apparently is a growing feeling, at least among some Asian and African nations, that Red Chinese membership might at least open the opportunity to converse with the Red Chinese. Actually this is a remote possibility and it cannot be said that Soviet membership has been a modifying influence in the conduct of that government's affairs. The recent extremist activities in China hardly hold out the hope of establishing any sort of a "dialogue" at this stage in history. Also it should be remembered that while Red China — and Russia — pay lip service to Hanoi's side in the Vietnamese war, their assistance has not been overwhelming. China would just as soon the war continued as a drain on both the United States and both sides in Viet Nam.

But our absolute opposition to Red Chinese membership in the U.N. offers not a single new idea to the problem. On the one hand we are risking a serious defeat if Red China gains membership in spite of our opposition. And we are not exploiting the disillusion with Red China that has become apparent among some African leaders. In effect we almost seem to be saying that we don't trust these nations to associate with the Red Chinese. There may be some grounds for such paternalism — most black African nations have so far shown serious lacks in ability to govern themselves wisely and without corruption and tyranny — but it is no way to seek responsible opinion and help develop responsible action. Nationalist China reportedly has been gaining some friends in Africa through some aid programs but we should not try to force other nations to choose absolutely between Peking and Taiwan.

At this stage it would appear to be wiser for the United States to consider the "two Chinas" approach if only because we would be facing up to the realities of the situation. Peking might denounce such an offer — in fact it is likely to — but the refusal would be upon its shoulders.

No one can seriously maintain any longer that the United Nations acts in accordance with its Charter, that it has any real power, even much persuasion. With this view perhaps the question of whether or not Red China gains admission is irrelevant.

But if we are to take a realistic view of what the U.N. still can contribute toward world peace and justice and the efforts to alleviate misery around the world, we have to accept that it still has a role it can fulfill. It is possible that by overplaying China's threat to the world as the United States is apt to do, we merely increase its influence.

Obviously our resolute opposition to Red China's admittance to the U.N. is a denial of the Administration approved statement by Vice President Humphrey last spring that our attitude toward Peking is "one of containment not isolation." And, since the policy decision was apparently reached because it was determined that we had enough votes to win our point of view for one more General Assembly session, it reflects President Johnson's political viewpoint rather than what he or his advisors think the best policy toward Red China would be.

Creative Conservation

A modest appropriation of state funds by the state legislature this year will give a significant incentive to one of the little known but most valuable agencies in the backwaters of the dynamic Wisconsin natural resources movement. The State Board for the Preservation of Scientific Areas has been given $30,000 as a contribution to its work that thus far has been supported incidentally by the State Conservation Department which has provided some of its staff assistance, but more particularly by private groups of citizens aware of its mission and sympathetic to its purposes.

The purpose of the board is to identify and to preserve unique or rare specimens of land in Wisconsin that contain flora and fauna that may otherwise be lost irretrievably. Native plant communities, such as original forest, or virgin prairie, or native bird and animal habitat that may otherwise be lost to the spread of population and industry, or merely through the more intensive use of our outdoors resources in general, are the targets of the search of the ecologists, botanists, biologists, foresters and many private citizens who are backing the board's program.

Since 1951 when the program was begun under the initiative of such men as Aldo Leopold, Norman Fasset, John Curtis and other University of Wisconsin pioneers in conservation, this modest state agency has approved and designated 45 tracts, some of them of tiny dimensions, for preservation as scientifically significant areas.

Many of them lie within state-owned preserves, including state forests and parks. Many others were in private ownership when identified and approved by the certification board, and have been obtained only through the good offices of private citizens and organizations. Especially laudable in this regard have been the contributions of Nature Conservancy chapters in the several districts of the state. As Clifford Germain of the staff explains, the quality of public understanding of such intellectual conservation pursuits in Wisconsin is indicated by the increasing participation of private citizens in the associated fund raising needs.

This is an aspect of the Wisconsin conservation program quite apart from the acquisition of wildlife lands to provide hunting opportunities, or the protection of stream banks for the benefit of the trout fishermen, or the expansion of parks to provide space for the recreational appetites of the burgeoning city. But in the long view of natural resources management, it is perhaps more important. For there is shown here no less than a determination to save some remnants of our true and original heritage. This is "pure" conservation, and we applaud the men who are devoting themselves to its cause.

Where Does Apartheid End?

The assassination of Hendrik Verwoerd in the Republic of South Africa is making little difference to that country's apartheid policies except perhaps to make them more rigid. New laws, drafted by Verwoerd before his death, are now being considered by Parliament and probably will pass since the Government Nationalist Party maintains firm control.

Whether or not one believes in the mixing of the races, the proposed new laws are an example of how restrictions merely mean more of them. Apartheid supporters have maintained that the colored would have representation of a sort. But the new laws extend apartheid to politics. Called "Prohibition of Improper Interference," they would ban multiracial membership in political parties such is now enjoyed in the Progressive Party. It would outlaw any sort of multiracial political meetings, force all organizations to become unracial and deny in effect representation of any meaning at all to the colored. It would in effect prohibit any political contact across color lines. A government spokesman explains that "political parties of each population group will only be able to oppose one another but will not in any way be able to render support or to oppose the political parties of other population groups." This is reminiscent of former Southern bans against white teams playing those made up of Negro players.

In addition, while there may be criticism of the government under certain conditions, there can be no criticism of the political party to which members of the government belong! And just in case something or other was overlooked, the Minister of the Interior is empowered "to prohibit anything else which in his judgment may have the effect of defeating the objects of the bill."

Whites in South Africa have good reason to fear control by the blacks who are in the vast majority. Most of the Negro leaders in Africa have shown little aptitude for sound governing since they have had little or no background in education or tradition for such leadership. The simmering resentment of black against white must be serious in South Africa. It is doubtful that there would be much opportunity for whites in South Africa if the blacks were in control.

But one must wonder how long the minority will be able to hang on to the ever-tightening chains before they strangle themselves.

Taylor Writes

It's Time We Help Portugal Fight Communism in Its African Colony

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Behind the scenes President Johnson is wisely easing our censorious policy toward Portugal. This is a victory for common sense.

President Kennedy's New Frontier repeatedly encouraged insurrection in Portuguese Angola, as it did throughout Africa. This policy contained a political pitch for the Negro vote in the United States. Our votes in the United Nations, in turn, were dedicated to buttering up the Afro-Asian bloc in a bid for "world opinion" — which is never defined.

Taylor

How could this sabotage of our NATO ally conceivably serve the American interest or the global welfare for which 305,000 armed Americans are fighting a horrible war in Viet Nam?

The Communists' constant strategy to drain NATO's strength, in which French President Charles de Gaulle is cooperating so handsomely and tragically, has pressed harder and harder on Portugal.

While we support 325,000 armed Americans in NATO the Reds have reduced the Portuguese forces standing at our side to practically nothing. DOUBLE PUNCH

Their strategy packs a double punch, for, as everywhere, it includes draining away a nation's funds that otherwise could improve living conditions.

About 45 per cent of Portugal's entire national budget now goes for military costs, chiefly to fight the Communist-directed African guerrillas marauding among Angola's 11 tribal groups.

On September 13 Portuguese Defense Minister Gomes de Araujo reported in Lisbon that 80,000 Portuguese troops are in that far-off place and in Mozambique. There goes most of our U.S. taxpayers' military aid to this NATO ally, useless to us where we need it. And there goes another backlash against the global welfare hopes which we pay billions for in foreign aid.

Angola is sprawled along 1,000 miles of Africa's west coast. It is a triangle almost twice the size of Texas and nearly half the size of the European continent. Part of its interior fronts on Red-dominated Zambia. For the first time, emboldened terrorist cadres of the so-called Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola have attacked from Zambia.

They are directed from Leipzig, East Germany, which is the true headquarters of this insurrectionist organization.

In NATO intelligence circles the Leipzig apparatus is designated as "Agitprop." Its parent organization is the Lenin School of Political Warfare, which has operated in Moscow for 41 years.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has testified before a Senate subcommittee that 6,000 to 8,000 African students are in Communist-bloc countries and that more than 10 hours a day of Communist broadcasts (including a steady stream from Castro's Cuba) are beamed exclusively to Africa.

The NATO intelligence files, which I have seen in Paris, show Agitprop now runs Afro-Asian Communist indoctrination programs in about 177 colleges and 6,600 secondary schools in Iron Curtain countries, a trade-union institute for Africans in Budapest, and terrorist training centers in Prague and Warsaw and in Bernau and Bautzen, East Germany, under the Leipzig command.

Moscow's Patrice Lumumba University alone has tooled up and sent back to their African homelands more than 1,000 trained insurrectionists in the past six months.

HANGAN CORPS

Those attacking Angola from Zambia are called the Hangan Corps, in honor of Abdulla Kassim Hangan, trained at Patrice Lumumba University, who seized the strategic island of Zanzibar in the Communist coup, put a gun at the back of American Consul Frederick P. Picard and drove him off to Tanganyika on the mainland.

These guerrilla experts, to say nothing of those trained by Red China, spread north and south of Zambia. They are entrenched in Ghana, Guinea, Burundi, the Cameroons, the Sudan, Somaliland, Tanganyika, Northern Rhodesia, Mali, Morocco and clear down to the border of South Africa.

Once back in their homelands they pillage the helpless people, exactly as the Viet Cong have in South Viet Nam. They do this where anti-Communists often outnumber them 100 to 1. Then the pillaged are left moribund, terrified and ruined by the treachery of their own countrymen.

The foreign policy of the United States should be established on three fundamentals: We must define America's interests clearly; we must realize that so-called world opinion is often merely a Trojan horse manipulated by the Communists themselves and we should never—never—proceed abroad on the basis of domestic politics here at home.

Wisconsin Report

Technical Education Beginning to Receive Attention It Deserves

John Wyngaard, Madison correspondent, is on vacation and has arranged for a series of guest columns to be published during his absence. Contributors will include prominent figures in Wisconsin governmental and political affairs.

BY ANGUS ROTHWELL
MADISON — Nearly everyone agrees that a very large percentage of our high school graduates should go on to some type of higher education. Since Wisconsin graduates about 90 per cent of all its youth who enter the ninth grade, the opportunities for higher education must be expanded and broadened.

Rothwell

Coordination of a great variety of higher educational programs to meet our needs in an orderly fashion is essential if we are to give each youth his chance to develop his greatest potential and, at the same time, to avoid costly errors in institutional development.

Wisconsin has done well in providing facilities and staff. Some states have been obliged to turn away youth who have sought to enter their colleges and universities because of a shortage of space. Our university and state universities have been prepared to accept all those who are qualified. In one area, however, we have not moved rapidly enough to keep pace with the needs of our youth and the needs of our affluent economy. This is in the technical and vocational field where demands far exceed our capability.

MUST CONSIDER NEEDS

Since it is the task of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education to face the needs of all of our youth, the technical and vocational offerings are now receiving major consideration. From the time of the early establishment of our university and colleges, Wisconsin youth — no matter where they lived — have had academic higher education opportunities. Until recently, only city youth have had any form of technical educational opportunity readily available and then often on a very limited basis. This has been true in spite of the fact that only 30 to 40 per cent of our high school graduates have sought an academic type of higher education. At last technical education is beginning to receive the respect which it deserves. It is now recognized that skills and knowledge which are required in many technical fields lie outside the interest and ability of a substantial number of academically-oriented students. A mutual regard for the significant status of students in both areas is developing. The CCHE is committed to a plan which will attempt to bring the advantages of both types of education to as many of our high school graduates as possible.

When the new state plan to put all of Wisconsin into a technical and vocational district is in full operation, the coordination of academic and technical instruction will be far more effective. The CCHE is promoting the strongest possible program for each type of institution, but at the same time is arranging for coordination of the two.

PROGRAM OUTLINED

For example, technical school students will be able to elect freshman English, while university students may elect drafting to become a part of a pre-engineering course. Dormitories, recreational facilities, and food services may be shared. Duplication can be avoided, and the CCHE believes both types of institutions will be strengthened. Technical institutes graduate students after two years of education, but will continue inservice types of education.

As the CCHE continues to develop and refine its long range plans every effort will be made to build on our strengths. Wisconsin citizens are rightfully proud of their great university which now has a major arm in Milwaukee and a growing center system.

With two new 3rd and 4th year campuses to be constructed in the eastern part of the state, the strain will be removed from the larger campuses. The state university system is healthy and steadily improving. With nine major institutions and the establishment of a limited number of branch campuses, all of our major population areas have some type of university education available.

By bringing together the needs of our youth and our entire state as we study enrollment projections, increased demands for higher education, the roles of our excellent private universities and colleges, the historic strengths of our public institutions, the sharing of educational responsibilities, the CCHE is performing a vital task in keeping our state in the top group of the nation.

Angus Rothwell, former state superintendent of public instruction for Wisconsin, is the executive director of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education.

Strictly Personal

Common Sense Once Saw World as Flat

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Since the response to my recent discussion of "faith," and the ways in which this term is abused, was so gratifyingly encouraging, I'd like to examine another phrase in the same category: "Common sense."

Harris

"Common sense" is usually opposed to "intellectualism," in the same way that "practical" is opposed to "theoretical." People (and this includes most of us) who have an aversion to reasoning like to believe that "common sense" is all anyone needs to solve difficult problems of living.

Elsewhere in the world, "intellectual" is a word of approval and admiration; in our society, it is a cross between an insult and a joke. Despite the fact that "intellectual" men have been the source of all our "practical" advances, we resent any demand made upon us to go beyond the obvious, the particular, the familiar.

We're Inconsistent
Our attitude is absurdly inconsistent. On the one hand, we want our children to go to college; we revere diplomas and degrees more than any other nation; and a formal education has almost become mandatory for success in this country.

On the other hand, we deride professors (and underpaying is a form of economic derision); we resent the use of long or strange words; we suspect anyone who knows more than we do of being arrogant; and we punish the intellectual for being "different," as a means of allaying our own feelings of insecurity and doubt.

To have genuine "common sense" means to know how far common sense will take you — and where it will break down.

It means understanding that some questions cannot be answered simply, that some problems require patient training and special aptitudes, that some opinions are worthless if they are merely based on the narrow shelf of personal experience.

This kind of common sense is exceedingly rare. What most people really mean when they apply the phrase to themselves is their need to treat new problems like old problems, their fear of painful thinking, their unwillingness to face a complex changing and mysterious universe, and their dread of giving up their most cherished illusions.

"Common sense" for long centuries told people the world was flat, that men could never fly, that democracy could not work, that atoms were irreducible. It was the abstracter, the intellectualizer, who defied and transformed common sense and made the common man a modern monarch. It is the basest ingratitude to forget this fact of history.

Looking Backward

Appleton Needs More Schools

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Sept. 20, 1866

As respects the welfare of our City (Appleton), nothing is more marked than the increase of population, mostly native born. This is certainly a productive region. School houses should be built with reference to prospective wants.

We have a good crop of wheat, and it is well to have a good crop of children. If we have more producers, we can take care of more consumers.

The city schools are in a flourishing condition. But few changes have been made in teachers. The pay has been increased, there is a healthy ambition, and the best results may be looked for.

The greatest trouble is want of room for the pupils. The Third Ward leads off nobly for a new school house. The Second Ward has stultified itself by refusing to make room for the pupils. This, however, was done by a few narrow-minded and selfish men who care more for a few dollars in their pockets than for the welfare of the children and youth.

25 YEARS AGO
Monday, Sept. 22, 1941.

Neenah policemen slated to prove their shooting prowess at the state pistol tournament at Camp McCoy that week were Raymond Carlson, Otis Hayes, Henry Kohfeldt and Stanley Staffeld. The tournament was being sponsored by the Wisconsin Police Protective Association.

Sidewalk "superintendents" were having a better view that week watching the new Bahcall Building go up on Appleton's College Avenue. The structure, to house a supermarket and movie theater, had reached the street level with the sub-basement structural work completed.

Appleton Marine Carlos Furringer was to come "home" briefly as a member of the 60-piece United States Marine Band. The musical group was to give a concert in Lawrence Memorial Chapel in early October under the auspices of Appleton Woman's Club.

10 YEARS AGO
Monday, Sept. 24, 1956.

Ninth grade students from Neenah's First Presbyterian Church organized a pioneer Westminister Fellowship. Members of the organizing executive body included Helen Tolverson, Richard Burns, Steven King, Barbara Meyer, Elynor Evans. Adult advisers were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wittmann.

Dick Hietpas was elected president of the sophomore class at St. John High School, Little Chute. Ellen Bouressa was named vice president, Marilyn Vanden Burgt secretary, and Keith Versteegen treasurer.

Gene Hietpas headed the senior class at St. John High that year with the other officers Sharon Van Lankvelt, vice president; Pat Liebergen, secretary, and Nancy Weyenberg, treasurer.

Welfare Costs Hurting Brown In California

Voters Resentful Of Mounting Costs;
Reagan Benefits

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

LOS ANGELES — While campaigning at the Los Angeles fair in Pomona last week, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown stopped

ped for a moment at a booth exhibiting California honey.

"Governor," said the beekeeper, pointing to a model beehive, "there's no 'welfare' in the beehive."

"What happens to the bees that don't work?" asked Brown. "They die," replied the beekeeper.

That conversation typified what has become the pivotal issue in Democrat Brown's uphill battle for a third term against conservative Republican Ronald Reagan: widespread discontent over the program of public welfare to the unemployed.

Yet, there are only 20,000 recipients in California of "aid to dependent children," the politically criticized variety of welfare. Indeed, the furor here over the welfare issue is really only a symbol of a much broader public discontent that is Reagan's greatest ally against Brown.

Welfare Attacked

Politicians of all kinds here readily agree that the Californian is somehow frustrated in the midst of affluence and this frustration emerges in the form of aggravation over high taxes, animosity toward the Negro and general irritation with the status quo. The entire mood is encapsulated in the welfare issue.

Both Reagan and Brown have encountered the emotional volatility of the welfare question during the first weeks of full-scale campaigning. In a swing through the agricultural San Joaquin Valley, Reagan's aides were startled to find that his references to welfare got a greater response than attacks on Brown's farm policy.

Accordingly, in his next speech — before workers at the Hughes aircraft plant in the Los Angeles area — Reagan expanded the section on welfare. When Reagan asserted that "able-bodied men should no longer receive a check for sitting on the front porch and doing nothing," the blue collar workers rewarded the Republican candidate with an animal roar of approval.

Cheer Question

Brown encountered the same voter spirit on a campaign visit to San Diego. When a questioner asked Brown what he intended to do about the welfare problem, the crowd cheered the questioner before the governor — much irritated by this display — had a chance to answer.

Just how disastrous this public mood is for Brown can be seen in an unscientific poll we conducted in West Covina, a middle-class to lower-middle-class suburb just east of Los Angeles — in the midst of the Southern California urban sprawl where the gubernatorial election will be won and lost.

Out of 30 voters interviewed, 13 voted for Brown in 1962 and 17 for his unsuccessful Republican foe, Richard M. Nixon. Out of the 17 Nixon voters, 16 are solid for Reagan this year (the 17th, a housewife, thinks "Reagan should stick to acting" and says she probably won't vote). But of the 13 Brown voters, only 7 are sure to vote for him again. Among the others, many are definitely switching to Reagan and four are considering it seriously.

"Welfare Out of Hand"

Even more interesting than the figures, however, are some of the reasons given by these defectors from Brown: "Brown has let this welfare thing get out of hand." "I'm paying my taxes so other people can loaf." "Brown is soft on the loafers."

With present statewide polls giving Reagan a lead of four percentage points (a victory of nearly 300,000 votes on the basis of a normal turnout), these defectors must be brought back into the Brown camp if he has any chance for victory.

There is no abundance of optimism among Democrats about the chances of bridging this relatively small gap. Although in high spirits, familiar, fumbling Pat Brown simply cannot strike sparks among his state's voters. His rational, logical explanations of the welfare problem fall on deaf ears in the anti-welfare state.

The only answer, in the minds of Democratic strategists, is to break down the credibility of Reagan. But Reagan is proving the most plausible, most convincing prophet of right-wing Republicanism on the present political scene. Telling Californians what they want to hear about the sins of welfare payments and all that this connotes, he may be impossible to beat.

Borrowing on Life Insurance Policy Has Some Advantages

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management
Dear Mary Feeley:

We need a loan due to some unexpected expenses. We wanted to borrow just the minimum — about $500 — but we were turned down at the bank. Do you think it's a good idea to borrow this amount on my $5,000 life insurance policy? After six years, it has a cash value of a little over $500.

W.J., Phoenix, Arizona

Dear W.J.: Certainly it's a cheaper, more convenient way to borrow — and usually quicker too. A lot of policyholders for children both on the way to the shrine and on the return trip.

Robert Hopfensperger and John Jansen have charge of reservations.

around the country are beginning to realize that the 5 per cent simple interest charged by most insurance companies makes more sense than the higher rates on conventional loans.

But there's an "if," W. J. If you repay this policy loan as determined as you'd repay a bank or finance company — fine. The danger lies in finding it too easy to let regular payments slide since nobody is dunning you. When you can repay money whenever you choose, in whatever amounts you choose ($10 or more), only your own strong character is your safeguard.

If you fail to pay interest in any year, it's added to the principal of the loan. If you string out the payments over a long period, even the reasonable interest rate will become costly. In four years, for example, you would have paid $100 in interest if you haven't been paying on the principal. And that amounts to a whopping one-fifth of the loan.

If yours is a participating policy, which pays dividends based on the insurance company's annual earnings, you can apply those dividends to settling up the score.

I urge you to discuss with your wife a definite plan of repayment — make it as large a sum as you can conveniently handle — and consider it a budget "must".

Dear Miss Feeley:

Our college daughter is going to earn over $600 for the first time this summer. As I understand it, we can take her for a deduction on our own income tax since we pay over half of her support.

But how does she come out when she files her income tax? Does she get to take a $600 deduction before she pays tax on the balance? She will probably earn as much as $1,000 before she goes back to school — unless she quits before she tops the $600 mark. However, she needs all the money she can earn. What would her approximate federal income tax be if she does earn $1,000 this year?

Mrs. B.B., Gold Beach, Oregon

Dear Mrs. B.:

Remember that your daughter is allowed a $600 exemption plus a $300 deduction — under the new minimum standard deduction. So $900 of her earnings would be tax-free. The minimum standard

Pope Makes No Plans for Party On 69th Birthday

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI marked his 69th birthday today with a normal 18-hour work schedule and no arrangements for an special observance.

On the eve of his birthday the Pope cautioned some 1,200 leading Roman Catholic theologians to move carefully in interpreting the vast changes outlined by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The theologians begin a week long congress in Rome today to consider 10 major areas of theology covered by the council. The work of the congress is expected to serve as the basis for future Catholic teaching.

Some cars impress racing drivers.

Some cars impress safety experts.

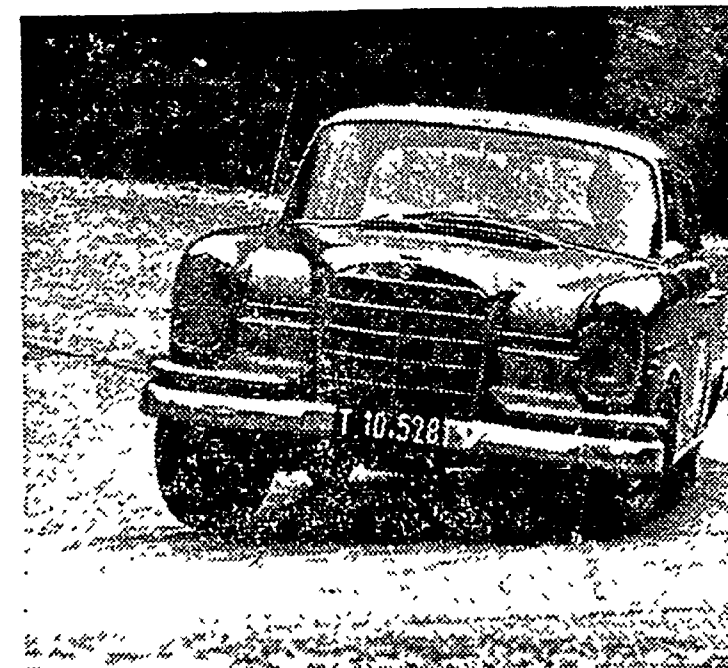

Mercedes-Benz cars impress both.

The responsiveness that makes it such a pleasure to drive also makes a Mercedes-Benz safe. It steers, maneuvers and stops as if your life depended on it — and with so many blundering drivers on the road, it might. A Mercedes-Benz is also armed with protective features in case trouble occurs. Item: front and rear body sections, designed to yield on heavy impact. Read the details on how scrupulous Mercedes-Benz engineering has bred a superbly safe automobile.

MERCEDES-BENZ builds 15 different models, from a $25,707* limousine to a $6,242* sports car to a $4,155* family sedan.

Each is engineered up to performance standards far beyond your normal needs. The objective: to give you maximum control over the car under even the most extreme conditions. The result: Mercedes-Benz cars are admired by professional racing drivers, lauded by safety experts, and respected in 158 countries throughout the world.

Superb performance is standard on every Mercedes-Benz. The car above is still winning competition events — after 90,000 miles. Weekdays, the owner drives it to work.

Holding the road

Every Mercedes-Benz rides on a fully independent suspension system with heavy-duty shock absorbers, heavy-duty springs, front anti-sway bar and a rear-axle, horizontal compensating spring.

For everyday smooth-road driving, this is sheer engineering extravagance.

But some day you might suddenly get off the pavement, onto a stretch of potholed back road. You might suddenly enter a sharp bend faster than you intended. You might suddenly have to change course while cruising along at over 60 miles an hour on a country lane.

And suddenly, this engineering extravagance is no extravagance at all.

A brutal test: Imagine how your car would fare if it were violently flung from side to side, on a narrow two-lane road — at 80 mph. Would it stay on the road? Each new Mercedes-Benz model must pass this test on the factory track before it goes into production.

Stop and stop and stop

Automotive engineers agree that front disc brakes are one of the most useful options you can buy for your car.

Mercedes-Benz engineers think front disc brakes are so useful that you shouldn't have to pay extra for them.

Even the lightest, least expensive Mercedes-Benz uses front disc brakes as standard equipment.

And since extra speed and weight mean extra braking demands, faster and heavier models use 4-wheel disc brakes. The Grand Mercedes limousine uses 4-wheel disc brakes, with two calipers at each front disc.

Technical note: Heat buildup that causes fading in drum brakes doesn't affect discs. Result — you keep stopping, even in repeated panic stops. No pulling, no shuddering. And the threat of brakes "locking up" is vastly reduced.

A tandem master brake cylinder and dual circuit brake lines are also standard equipment. If one system should fail, the other could take over and safely stop the car.

Tires that can take it

Mercedes-Benz does not manufacture tires. But neither do its engineers sluff off the crucial role that tires play in handling, braking and cruising.

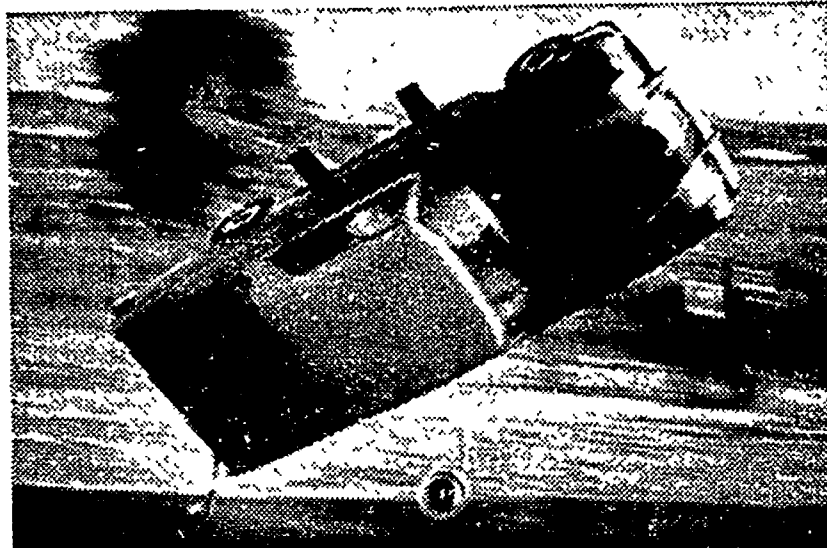

Every Mercedes-Benz uses tires designed to perform safely in steady cruising beyond the car's top speed — with a full passenger and trunk load, at normal highway air pressures.

Such tires add to the cost of a Mercedes-Benz — and to your sense of security.

Sharp reflexes

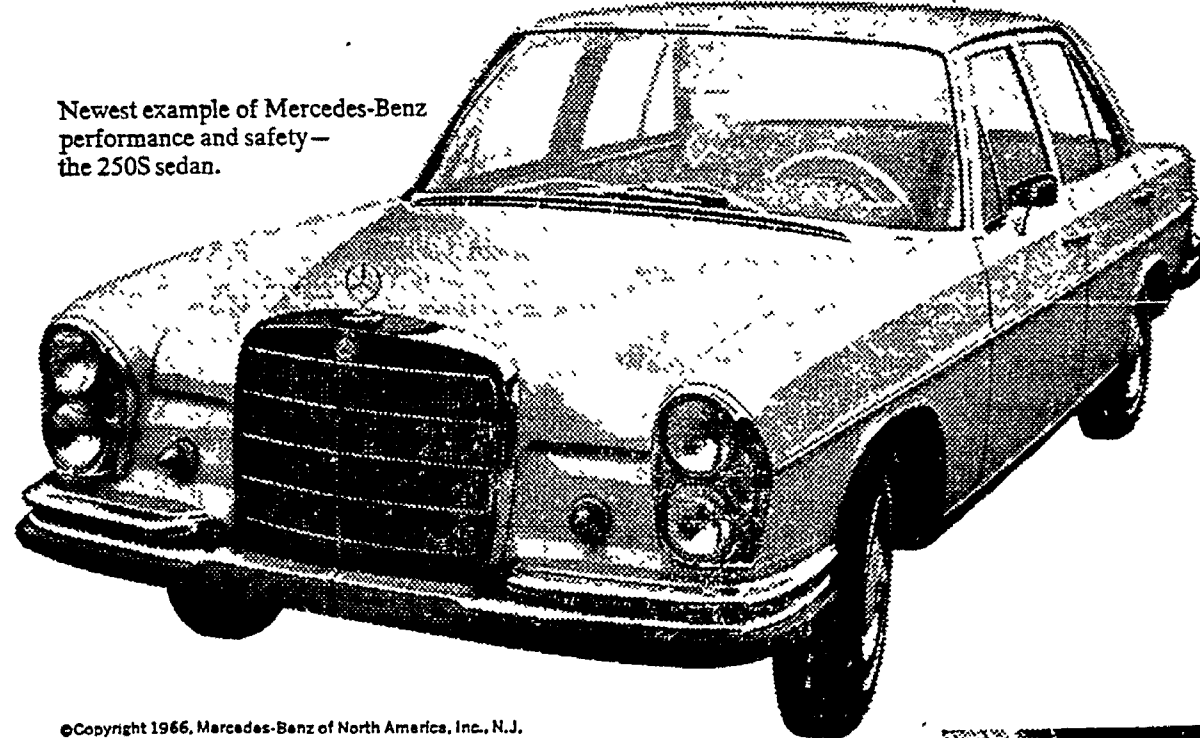

Accurate steering is vital for maximum control. In a sudden crisis, you don't have time for endless twirling of the wheel. The car must go instantly where it's pointed.

Every Mercedes-Benz does. Because every Mercedes-Benz uses a self-adjusting, recirculating-ball steering mechanism. Heavy-duty suspension arms and kingpins help maintain alignment. On rough roads, an ingenious shock damper in the steering linkage absorbs jolts before they can shake the steering wheel.

In Mercedes-Benz safety demonstration, a $9,000 hardtop coupe is rolled over at 65 mph. Roof and doors stayed intact.

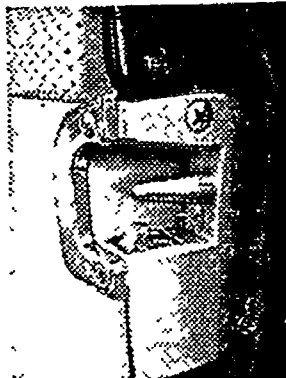

Spectacular example: The steering gear and every other part of a Mercedes-Benz excel when the going is brutal. A while ago, two European ladies gave vivid proof: they drove a $9,000 Mercedes-Benz luxury sedan in one of the world's nastiest competition events, the Argentine Grand Prix. The route covered 3,000 miles of South America's foulest roads. The pace was furious, and the competition was fierce. The ladies won.

"Safety cone" lock

If trouble meets you

Such superb Mercedes-Benz engineering can help you evade trouble in a sudden crisis. But the grim fact remains — accidents do happen.

Mercedes-Benz engineers faced this fact, then went to work.

First, they made the car body itself a safety device (patented, 1951). Front and rear sections of this "unit" body are designed to collapse on heavy impact, absorbing shock before it can slam into the passenger compartment.

Patented "safety cone" door locks are designed to keep doors shut in collisions from any angle, or in roll-over crashes. Up front, the steering gear is located behind the front suspension and wheel masses.

Stylists take a back seat

A Mercedes-Benz interior is made safe before it's made pretty. For example, the steering wheel hub looks like a doughnut. It is padded, not pointed. The instrument panel is padded on top, to protect the head, and underneath, to protect the knees. Beneath this padding — thin-gauge steel, to further absorb heavy impacts.

You'll find thoughtful safety features throughout every Mercedes-Benz. Controls are padded, recessed or mounted to snap off if struck. The rearview mirror springs off its mounting if hit by a force of more than 16 lbs. Seats are rigidly anchored to the floor. Their backs are rolled and padded.

Even the Mercedes-Benz hood ornament is a safety feature. It is spring-mounted to avoid impaling pedestrians.

A parting word

However well engineered it may be, no car can entirely defend against the show-off, the drunkard, or the neurotic bent on self-destruction. Safety depends on you.

For sane drivers, Mercedes-Benz cars can help reduce the hazards of driving — without dulling its pleasures. They are among the world's safest cars, and also among the world's most responsive. A unique and desirable combination.

GOP Proposes Own Plan for Poverty Fight

Would Cost Less Than Johnson Bill, Republicans Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are ready with their own antipoverty plan today as the administration's much-criticized program finally reached the house floor.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford says the GOP plan would cost the government less than half as much.

The Michigan Republican said in an interview the GOP's so-called equal opportunity bill would cost about $1.75 billion, for which $750 million would be paid by state and local governments and private industry.

The administration bill, which would carry the war on poverty into its third year, would cost $1.75 billion — all in federal funds.

Ford said the GOP plan, to be introduced this week, is a concrete example of the Republicans' drive to cut federal spending. He said cuts are imperative "because of the Johnson-Humphrey inflation we're faced with — primarily because of excessive spending out of the federal treasury."

Ford declined to speculate on the GOP bill's chances for enactment.

Democratic House leaders predict the administration bill will pass by a narrow margin in spite of rough opposition.

Ford announced the Republican plan at a news conference in Grand Rapids, Mich.

The administration bill comes to the House floor after a long delay while Congress is working on several major bills in a drive toward mid-October adjournment.

If they can squeeze it in, House leaders also want to get passage of one of President Johnson's anti-inflation measures. It would suspend the 7 percent investment credit for industry, and certain tax-advantageous depreciation formulas.

Derelict Dies After Youths Set Him Afire

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonard Benton Jr., an ordained minister whose life had drifted onto the Bowery, died Sunday of burns suffered last week when teenagers doused him with kerosene and set him afire.

The derelict, 51, one of three men similarly attacked in the space of a week, was taken to a hospital last Monday from an off-Bowery doorway where he had been sleeping on a pad of cardboard cartons when attacked.

He was burned over 75 percent of his body. Five youngsters, ranging in age from 12 to 15, were arrested the next day in connection with the incident and charged as juvenile delinquents.

From his home in Kentucky, Benton's father, Leonard Sr., said his son had left for the city 13 years ago after he "got in with the wrong crowd and got to drinking."

The elder Benton said his son was ordained as a minister in the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) and preached in "some small churches" in Kentucky.

Credit Union Sues Wisconsin Insurance Firm

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A Minnesota credit union — State Capitol — has filed a $712,000 lawsuit in St. Paul against a Wisconsin insurance company over losses the union allegedly suffered.

The suit is directed at its bonded surety firm, Employees Mutual Liability Insurance Co. of Wisconsin. The suit contends the Wisconsin firm was under contract to cover any losses due to fraud or dishonesty on the part of employees.

The action further alleges that certain employees' acts resulted in losses in the form of uncollectable loans.

Capitol Credit was reorganized early this year after it was found to be burdened with allegedly uncollectable loans.

The suit also seeks to recover more than $34,000 paid to an accounting firm which conducted an audit on the firm's financial condition.

Leaders Concerned About War Situation

TOKYO (AP) — The leaders of Japan and Burma today expressed their "deep concern" over the situation in Viet Nam and called on the forces involved there to strive for "a lasting peace."

A joint communique was issued by President Ne Win, chairman of Burma's Revolutionary Council, and Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato at the end of Ne Win's six-day state visit to Japan.

be due somewhat to an increase in the juvenile crime rate, Powers said, but mostly it's because Wisconsin has more young people.

Five years ago the average youth stayed in one of the training schools for about 8.3 months. Now he said the figures are just a fraction more than four months.

Not Long Enough

"What this amounts to," Powers said, "is that we don't have the kids long enough to have any impact on them. They're with us barely long enough to be identified and counseled a little."

Forcing the youths back into society and onto the streets before they are ready has pushed up the percentage of those returning to the schools, he said. Now more than half of the juveniles admitted are re-tracing footsteps they have taken at least once before.

"When we were able to keep the boys until we thought they were ready, the failure rate was about 30-35 per cent," Powers said.

Powers said the two new boys facilities, coupled with a proposed $6.7 million institution for girls, would not solve the problem.

But he said it would allow the state to keep youths for longer periods and decrease the chances of their getting into the kind of trouble that would send them back.

South Korean Leader Refuses Resignations

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korean President Chung Hee Park replaced his justice and finance ministers today and rejected the resignations of Premier Chung Ik-kwon and the rest of his Cabinet.

Chung and his 16 ministers resigned last Thursday after an opposition lawmaker threw human excrement on the premier and four Cabinet members during an assembly discussion of a smuggling scandal involving a fertilizer factory.

Park said he held the finance and justice ministers responsible for the scandal over $111,000 worth of raw saccharine smuggled from Japan in the guise of machinery for a fertilizer company.

The assemblyman who threw the waste resigned and was arrested.

Grand Jury Starts Probe of Activities Of Mafia Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — A Queens grand jury today opens its probe of what has been dubbed a "little Apalachin" meeting of Mafia chieftains.

The jury begins hearing the 13 reputed Mafia leaders arrested while lunching at a Forest Hills, Queens, restaurant last Thursday.

The 13 originally were to be charged with conspiring with known criminals — each other — but the prosecutor later changed his plans and the men were held as material witnesses in the grand jury probe.

Dist. Atty. Nat. Hentel and the police have compared the gathering to the 1957 underworld confab at Apalachin, N.Y., which state police raided.

Each of the 13 is free in $100,000 bail — $1.3 million in all.

Troops Rout Congo Rebels

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP) — Government troops have routed Katangan mutineers and taken control of Kisangani, formerly Stanleyville, reports from that city indicated today.

The mutiny in Katanga, a stronghold of ex-Premier Moise Tshombe, came amid anti-Portuguese demonstrations in Kinshasa. The government of President Joseph Mobutu has charged that Portugal is assisting in a plot to bring Tshombe back to power.

The Portuguese Embassy was burned and several Portuguese diplomats manhandled in a mob attack on the Embassy Saturday.

U.S. sources reported three helicopters lost in South Viet Nam Sunday, one by enemy groundfire, one by U.S. artillery fire and the other in a crash. Two crewmen were killed and two injured when one helicopter crashed in a mine field at Bien Hoa. Two persons aboard a helicopter knocked down by groundfire 21 miles southeast of Saigon were injured.

Mekong Flooding

Flood waters continued to rise in the Mekong Delta, reaching rooftops in some sections of the hard-hit provinces of Chau Doc, An Giang, Kien Phong and Kien Tuong. Some 20,000 Vietnamese have been made homeless and thousands more face evacuation, but no deaths have been reported.

The first armed forces television station in a combat zone in Viet Nam was formally opened in a tape-cutting ceremony Sunday at Qui Nhon. The station, which eventually will operate 56 hours a week, will beam news and American television programs to some 24,000 U.S. troops in the area.

Sgt. Robert A. Martin of Albuquerque, N.M., program director, said: "We expect to have 'Batman' in two weeks."

Lad Finds Finger Doesn't Fit in Slot

DALLAS Tex. (AP) — Richard Meletio, 9, poked a finger into a vending machine slot designed only for quarters.

"I was just fooling around," he said.

He was at a bowling center near his home.

It was an hour and 27 minutes later before firemen hacksawed the metal slot and used pliers to free Richard's finger.

Japanese Launch Attempt Fails

UCHINOURA, Japan (AP) — Japan failed today in its first attempt to orbit an artificial satellite but succeeded in focusing attention on its space and missile program.

Around the country hundreds of thousands stopped work to watch a telecast of the launching from the Tokyo University space center at the southernmost tip of Japan.

No other nation in Asia has come so close to orbiting a satellite. The shot almost succeeded.

The four-stage rocket had a 15.6-pound satellite at its tip. Each of the four stages fired successfully. Japanese scientists said a mechanism designed to stop the last stage from spinning did not function properly. The satellite went off course and presumably burned up on re-entering the atmosphere.

Radiation Succeeds in Cancer Test

CHICAGO (AP) — Researchers at the University of Chicago say that radioactive chromium wire has been used successfully in the experimental treatment of cancer.

"Six years ago a patient with a life expectancy of six months was treated with radioactive chromium wire," Dr. Melvin Griem, an associate professor of radiology said Sunday. "He is leading a normal life today."

Griem led the experiments at the Argonne Cancer Research Hospital of the University of Chicago.

Since the initial use of the wire, 10 additional patients have undergone such treatment. These cases, Griem said, are being evaluated.

As explained by Griem, the radioactive chromium wire was cut into short lengths and inserted into cancerous tissue of patients to retard or destroy the cancerous growth by radiation. The wire used by the researchers was thirty-one thousandths of an inch thick.

Singleton Lead Good For Slams

Players all over the country are practicing with their partners for the rubber bridge tournament in Las Vegas early in October. This is a fine idea, but for most people practice is a way of repeating the same mistakes. The big boner in today's hand is typical.

West remembered reading in somebody's bridge column that a singleton is often a very effective lead against a slam in a suit. So West opened his singleton club.

Your Problems

Student's Ambition Raises Eyebrows and Questions

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 18 years old and going to secretarial school. I want to become an expert in shorthand and typing so that I can be a first-class secretary and travel with my boss.

When I tell my friends that this is my ambition in life, their jaws drop and their eyebrows shoot up about six inches. The general impression seems to be that a secretary who travels with her boss is more than just a secretary—if you get what I mean. Maybe I am terribly naive, Ann, but is this the way it is? —Fledging.

Dear Fledging: Well, honey, that's the way it is sometimes — but of course there are exceptions.

Apparently you are a girl who enjoys secretarial work and also wants to travel. I suggest you weigh these two ambitions and make a choice — become either a secretary or an airline stewardess.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a woman, 48, with a fine husband and three wonderful children who are all doing well in college.

Would you believe that my problem is my parents? My father is a drunk and my mother is the long-suffering type who enjoys her role.

As a child we often had boiled potatoes and beans for dinner and our clothes came from resale shops, but dad always drove an expensive car and had plenty of money for liquor. Mother worked nights, cleaning office buildings.

The problem is that at least once a week my mother phones me at any hour of the night to come and help her get dad out of jail, or pull him out of a tavern, or help drag him from the vestibule to the second floor bedroom.

I have told my mother repeatedly not to involve me in the messes but she always cries on the phone and says she needs me. My husband used to go along but he got fed up a few years ago and told me I was on my own with my nutty family.

In your column you have frequently said if a person speaks up against being used, that will end the problem, but it hasn't worked for me. I've told my mother to leave me alone dozens of times but she keeps calling. What can I do? —Used up.

Dear Up: You recognize the martyr complex in your mother but you don't recognize it in yourself.

Your mother has helped your dad stay on the booze and you've backed her in the role of abused wife. When you get smart and knock it off, your mother may get smart, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you settle a disagreement? I attended a luncheon recently and met some interesting people.

Since I am a newcomer to this city I am on the alert for women I'd like to know better.

Mrs. V. seemed very friendly and eager to introduce me around. She brought over a stunning woman who was exquisitely dressed and said with great pride, "This is my sister."

At that moment another woman stepped up and greeted Mrs. V. She was shabbily dressed, plain in appearance but her smile was warm and I liked her at once.

Mrs. V. said, "This is my half-sister. We had the same mother but not the same father." I felt it was unnecessary for her to make the distinction. My mother did not agree with me. What do you think? —Undecided.

Dear Undecided: The "distinction" was unspeakably rude. Nobody expects to be clued in on blood lines during a casual introduction.

Monkeys Try To Outwit a Computer

BY TV SCOUT
BEST BET — NO SELECTION
6:30 - 7:00 CHANNELS 5
(NBS) — The Monkees is still ingratiating although it strains a bit too hard in this episode to rib the woes of automation. Opening scenes, with the boys taking turns to outwit a computer, are the funniest. Their plan is to save the job of an elderly toymaker whose firm is now using machines to turn out gruesome toys like a Junior Wire Tapping Kit so they can listen in on private conversation between mommy and daddy. Stan Freberg is the steel-hearted efficiency expert.

6:30 - 7:00 CHANNELS 2-7-12 (CBS) — "Pass the Vegetables, Please" on Gilligan's Island is mostly inane yet it does have some food for thought. Bob Denver finds a crate of seeds which are dutifully planted by the hungry castaways. The seeds grow faster than the beans in Jack and the Beanstalk. But don't look for golden eggs. Instead some "radioactive walamacallit" effects.

7:00 - 7:30 CHANNELS 2-7-12 (CBS) — Run, Buddy, Run slides in by its nose for some witty comments on horse racing. Zeme North, a pretty little filly in her own right, persuades Jack Sheldon to ride her thoroughbred. This leads to a frantic handicap, with Sheldon finding it rough to stay in the saddle (the horse is ornery) as he ducks the shots of the hard-betting Devere gang.

7:30 - 8:00 CHANNELS 2-7-12 (CBS) — The Lucy Show waddles through another bean bag episode. Its heroine, Lucille Ball, is desperate to cash in on a "double your money back if not satisfied" advertising campaign of a bean company. There's fun as she meets company president Ed Begley head-on, hoping he will parlay her 1,300 cans of beans so she can furnish her apartment.

8:00 - 8:30 CHANNELS 4-5 (NBC) — The Roger Miller Show is still traveling the rails with a batch of choo-choo type tunes. Aboard are Vince Edwards, who dangles his feet out of a cattle car, and joins his host in "This Train" and "When the Saints Go Marching In," also on hand are the scruffy members of the Jim Kweskin Jug Band, who plink, blow, thump, strum and toot "Good Time Charlie."

8 - 9 CHANNELS 4-5 (NBC) — The Road West poses an interesting question. Should youthful Andrew Prine, the pride of the Ben Pride family, forsake goodness to become a hip-shooting gunfighter? Eager to teach him is James Daly, a broken-down warrior of dubious worth, and just as eager to shoot Prine down is James Gammon. Groaning about all this is Barry Sullivan as Ben. 3 star dash

9 - 10 CHANNELS 4-5 (NBC) — Run For Your Life's pay.

Jack Valenti, former aide to President Johnson, outlines the new movie self-censorship code he has approved as head of the Motion Picture Producers Association. The altered code, which deals primarily with morality in movies, will follow more relaxed, less hard and fast rules. (AP Wirephoto)

Compassion Seen in Newest Albee Drama

Reviewer Suggests Sardonic Playwright Mellowing; 'Delicate Balance' Stimulating

By WILLIAM GLOVER

AP Drama Critic
NEW YORK (AP) — Is Edward Albee getting mellow?

In "A Delicate Balance," at Broadway's Martin Beck Theater, the acerbic observer of American folkways pens a calmer parable than before. The familiar sardonic sting is present, but added is a measure of compassion.

Gone are the rococo obscurities of "Tiny Alice," the epicene errors of "Malcolm." The result is a steadily stimulating, if subdued, dramatic experience.

Albee isn't letting off the audience with mere entertainment. In telling about a family confronted with an ultimate test of friendship, he is compelling each spectator to examine individual human responsibility.

Accomplished Actors
Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn center the charade as a complacent suburban couple, bickering away the years of exhausted emotion in endless argument about her bibulous sister upstairs and their oft-divorced daughter.

Dilemma descends in the persons of their best friends, fleeing the terror of their own domestic loneliness by moving in as permanent guests. The situation enables Albee, with a good many biting metaphors, to ponder whether "brutality is the souring side of love," to point out that "we always envy someone we should not" and to explore the depths of self-pity.

With Miss Tandy and Cronyn in the cast are Rosemary Murphy, the alcoholic relation; Carme Mathews and Hersen Forsythe, the sore-trying friends; and Marian Seldes, matronly, "quadruple amputee." Alan Schneider's direction is unobtrusively precise. The setting was by William Ritman and costuming, with a rich wardrobe for Miss Tandy, was by Theoni V. Aldredge.

"A Delicate Balance" isn't likely to stir as much chatter as some Albee works, but it is skilled, provocative theater.

What Critics Say
What New York newspaper critics said:

Walter Kerr of the New York Times: "The sort of a play that might be written if there were no theater. It exists outside itself, beside itself, aloof from itself."

John Chapman of the Daily News: "It is a beautiful play, easily Albee's best."

Richard Watts of the New York Post: "Mr. Albee starts the new drama season with another arresting play brilliantly corroding and lacerating wit."

Norman Nadel of the World Journal Tribune: "As things turn out, 'A Delicate Balance' is just what Edward Albee's new play lacks. Even though a cold, unfeeling malevolence gives a kind of continuity to the drama it is jarred repeatedly by inconsistencies."

WHICH TEENAGERS ARE MORE VAIN?
BOYS □ GIRLS □

Edgar Z. Friedenberg, astute observer of adolescents, says "Boys . . . seem to me usually more concerned with their appearance than girls and also have more ideas what they actually look like and how other people will respond to the way they look." It is during the teen years that both boys and girls have to come to terms with their changing bodies. This is one reason why millions of dollars worth of grooming aids are bought not only by adolescent girls, but also by the boys.

A child should be allowed to plan his own future!

Right Wrong
Right. Your child is most likely to plan his own future if you encourage him wisely and if he is or can be connected with work that seems to have a future. Studies of both high school and college students show, incidentally, that planning ahead is most common among boys of higher social and economic levels.

THE AGES OF ANXIETY — from 2 to 6 years of age — and how to deal with children during this time, is just one of the many subjects discussed in the booklet, "Your Child's Emotional Health." BROWN COUNTY ARENA

Meanwhile, Back at Ranch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson and his family staged a huge and noisy reunion at the LBJ Ranch, then welcomed to the fold a young Marine just back from Vietnam.

The occasion was a lawn party Friday to salute 250 neighbor women who have served as tour guides at the President's boyhood home and his reconstructed birthplace.

The ladies not only received printed certificates of gratitude from Mrs. Johnson, but also got a ringside seat for the family reunion. And they were invited to watch the "world premier" — in a ranch airplane hangar — of an hour-long, color documentary-style film of the wedding of Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent.

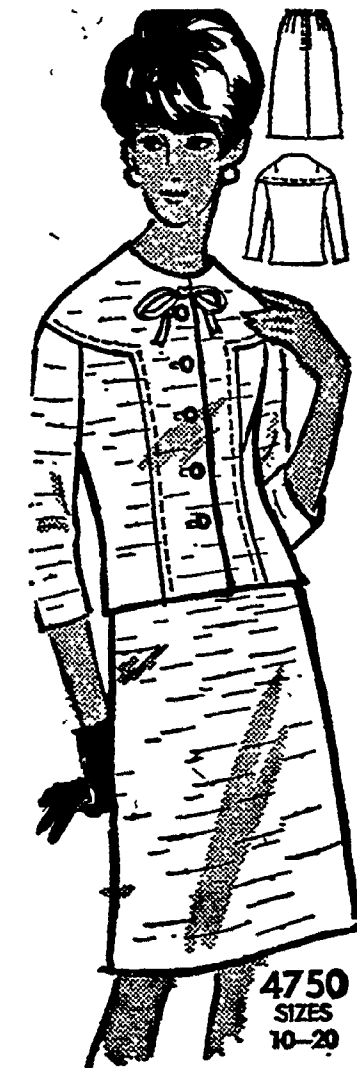

The wedding film brought tears to the newlyweds' eyes. Luci told the audience, "I didn't cry at my own wedding, possibly because I didn't see it, but I can guarantee you that tears came to both our eyes today."

Mrs. Johnson had just flown in from New Mexico and the

APPOINTMENTS NOT ALWAYS NECESSARY

President from Washington. Luci and Nugent had driven from their new home in Austin, 70 miles away.

They welcomed some special guests to the ranch — Nugent's brother, Marine Lt. Gerard P. Nugent, and his wife Phyllis.

Lt. Nugent, who couldn't be best man at the wedding because he was on war duty, was home now and enjoying getting to know his brother's in-laws.

Under the live oak trees on the front lawn, Mrs. Johnson took over as master of ceremonies to thank the women who have shown more than 33,000 visitors through the historic Johnson homes.

There were all sorts of speeches and informal comments — even Luci's pet beagle, Kimberly, was introduced.

Jessie Hunter, director of the boyhood home, reported that the visitors, who have come from all 50 states and 72 foreign countries, "get the biggest kick" from Johnson's grade school report card — with a C-plus in deportment.

"It's one thing they have in common with the President," she quipped.

Luci, barelegged and wearing a multicolored shift, apologized for her attire and said she would have put on her best dress had she known she would be in such honored company.

But, she said, "I do have my most prized possession with me and I'd like you to meet my husband."

When the ceremonials were over and Lena Johnson — no relation — had been acclaimed the record-holding tour guide with 238 hours to her credit, Johnson and Texas Gov. John B. Connally took off in a white convertible with Johnson at the wheel.

He's off to see the "Herefords and the sunset," Mrs. Johnson said.

Appleton Council to Consider Juvenile Curfew Ordinance

Mayor Suggests New London Law be Used as Guide Line

Mayor George Buckley today advocated a curfew law for Appleton in the wake of a wave of vandalism which has been sweeping the city for several months.

Buckley sent a letter to the common council's welfare-ordinance committee and suggested it study the problem and consider curfew legislation.

He enclosed a copy of the curfew law now in effect in New London and said it contained points which merited consideration here.

Since Jan. 1 there has been damage caused to parks and other city property amounting to thousands of dollars. Street and arterial signs have also been stolen, painted over and defaced by vandals.

Safety Hazards

In most cases, the defacing of the arterial signs has created serious safety hazards for motorists and pedestrians.

The vandalism has reached such proportion that recently Ald. John Ayers (12th), chairman of the public safety committee, asked for a stronger city ordinance which would increase the penalty for vandals caught and convicted.

"In view of the recent nocturnal occurrences of vandalism in the City of Appleton," Buckley wrote, "I urge your committee to undertake a study of the feasibility of Appleton adopting a similar ordinance." He was referring to the New London ordinance which sets a curfew for children 17 years of age and under, making it unlawful for them to remain on any city street or public place between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m. during the week, and from midnight to 6 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Only Exceptions

The exception is when they are accompanied by a parent or adult willing to assume legal responsibility for the child.

When an arrest is made, the parents are also co-defendants.

Lawyer Given 30 Days to Raze Or Fix Building

S. Memorial Drive Property Recently Rezoned to Business

The owner of the vacant residence at 303 S. Memorial Dr. has been given 30 days by the department of inspections to fix up the place.

Attorney Samuel Sigman last week also received a recommendation from Charles Magnette, inspection director, to raze and remove the old, frame building if it is not to be occupied.

The property was rezoned several weeks ago from residential to local business to permit Sigman's law firm to construct a proposed new office building.

Sigman Will Comply

Sigman said today that "all suggestions and recommendations of the inspectors will be complied with."

He indicated the firm is in the process of having plans prepared for the new office building but could not say when construction would begin.

"We are cooperating with the city in every way, and may even start the new building within the 30 days; we don't know yet," Sigman said.

On Sept. 12, Magnette and a health department inspector checked the building, along with Sigman, resulting in recommendations that the garage be immediately razed and removed, front and rear porch rebuilt, and all windows replaced, among other things.

Repairs Must Be Made

The inspectors said the building was structurally sound and indicated condemnation would not be necessary at this point. But they said the repairs would have to be made before it could be occupied, so as to comply with the city codes.

Sigman said the garage would be torn down as soon as possible.

If the building is not removed and it is left unoccupied, the inspections department has advised that deteriorating parts be removed and "the building closed up properly to prevent entrance by unauthorized persons."

Complaints Received

At the Sept. 7 council meeting a resolution was submitted by Ald. R. P. Groh (8th) to proceed with ordering the building removed. The alderman said he was getting complaints about the unsightly residence.

Magnette also has written a letter to Mayor George Buckley and the Board of Public Works, declaring: "The condition of the residence building is not such that condemnation procedures could be carried out, though the garage building and porches can be and are ordered removed because of their condition."

Representatives From 10 counties attended a regional leadership training conference of the Wisconsin Association for Retarded Children Saturday at Jericho. Pulled in Two Directions

Professor Talks to Clergy On Negro Race Relations

"The Negro leader is being pulled in two directions—either he is an Uncle Tom, in which case the Negro people spit up on him, or he is a Negro nationalist, and the white people are against him," the Appleton Area Clergymen's Association was told Monday.

Speaking on the topic of race relations at the monthly meeting of the newly-formed organization consisting of clergymen of all denominations, was Dr. Francis Broderick, dean of Lawrence University.

"What the Negro really wants is to be absorbed into the American society, in spite of all the talk by the radical groups," the dean said, "but they want it on terms other than those outlined for them by the white society," he added.

Bridge the Gap

Once in a while men like Dr. Luther King come along who can bridge the gap between the white and Negro world and for a while, are accepted by both groups. Broderick said, but "lately King has not been successful with his own people 'because his victories have been hollow.'"

"Among the radical groups he is an Uncle Tom because the delivery on all he has advocated has been slow and the people are no longer satisfied," Broderick said.

"And more and more Negro people are turning to violence—not because they are violent by nature but because it gives them an imagined victory in a white world," the dean said.

Psychological Feeling "There often is a feeling that it is psychologically better to die fighting 'back,' he added.

Broderick also told the audience that the reasons for the divided leadership in Negro communities is that the leaders are not firm in maintaining contact with their people.

"But as expectations continue to rise, we can expect that the leaders speaking for violence will get stronger unless the expected results are delivered by other non-violent groups," he said.

Barrel of Ashes Starts Fire in Southside Garage

A garage burned, and power lines, and paint on a house were damaged Sunday afternoon at the home of Joseph Collard, 425 S. Schaefer Ave. The fire reportedly started after ashes from a charcoal grill were placed in a cardboard barrel inside the garage.

Appleton firemen, using two engines and a truck, pumped water on the blaze for 30 minutes.

The fire broke out when the residents were away from home. Mrs. Collard later told authorities that her husband cleaned a charcoal grill and placed ashes in the barrel.

Firemen said the garage was a total loss. Flames produced intense heat which blistered paint on the side of the Collard home and burned the power lines.

Appleton Firemen Flush Gasoline From Street After One-Car Crash

A 17-year-old Appleton girl was injured shortly after midnight Saturday when the car in which she was a passenger left N. Oneida Street, hit a utility pole and struck a concrete building at 222 N. Oneida.

The car's gasoline tank was ruptured in the accident and Appleton firemen were called to flush the fuel from the street and sidewalk.

Richard Chudy, 16, 2 Garden Court, told police he was attempting to turn into a driveway west of the building when the accident occurred.

June Paulson, 821 N. Oneida St., reportedly sustained bruised legs and a bruise to her right hand.

Scouting Skills, Vaudeville on Fall Agenda

Valley Boy Scout Council Announces October Calendar

Cub Scouts will put on vaudeville shows and Boy Scouts will compete in scouting skill contests during October according to the month's program themes announced by Richard Loescher, scout commissioner of the Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Cub Scout Vaudeville is the October theme for 64 Cub Scout packs in the valley council, and each of the dens in a Cub Scout pack will prepare a puppet show, magic show, hootenanny, musical review, pantomime and charade for the monthly pack meeting.

Most of the Cub Scout packs also plan to take part in Fire Prevention Week projects and to work on earning the "Family Alert" pack citation as a part of the emergency preparedness program of the Boy Scouts.

Practice Skills

The 75 Boy Scout troops in the council will practice such skills as first aid, fire building, cooking, signaling, knot tying, compass, and map orientation to prepare for a troop rally that will feature competitive skill events for its patrols.

Suggested activities for the high-school-age explorer posts during October include a Halloween party, a meeting for prospective members as a part of the Follow the Rugged Road roundup, and a car rally to test explorer's navigating and driving skill, Loescher said.

Gasoline Flushed After Fuel Tank Comes Loose

Burglar Dives Through Window, Eludes Police

An acrobatic burglar escaped Appleton police early Sunday morning by diving headlong through a 12-by-19-inch window at the Greyhound Bus Depot, 500 N. Oneida St.

A patrolling policeman heard glass breaking in the vicinity of the depot at 2:15 a.m. and, upon investigation, saw a man inside the building.

Police said the man ducked behind a counter after being ordered to surrender. He then ran along the top of a counter and dove head first through a broken window.

Board's Appeal Being Backed By Two Women's Organizations

Another drive aimed at the eventual establishment of a countywide health department will be undertaken by the Appleton Board of Health later this week, it was learned today.

The Appleton League of Women Voters and Junior Women's Club is expected to lend strong support to revising the county's overall health setup.

In 1962 the Appleton Board of Health went on record favoring the countywide department and also received the support of the Outagamie County Medical Society, but no action was ever taken by the Outagamie County Board.

Dr. James Laird, city health commissioner, confirmed today that at Wednesday's meeting of the board of health, his department is submitting a resolution which in effect reaffirms the 1962 request for countywide reorganization of health programs.

Board Reorganizing

"The county board is doing some reorganizing and it is hoped this matter will get full attention now," Dr. Laird commented.

"Frankly speaking, I think we must consider this as being one metropolitan area," Dr. Laird said.

He explained that health problems should then be treated accordingly instead of having fragmentation as presented by the various cities, towns and villages — and county — having their own health divisions.

Affects All

"We are at a point in this growing area that one problem in an area affects the others," Dr. Laird said.

It would be impossible to contact each unit of government in the county to band together," he added, "and that is why the county board is being asked to consider a countywide health department."

The local health official said it was merely a logical place to start and he hoped the recommendation would be better received than it was four years ago.

"It was learned that a survey conducted of Women Voters and the Research Council of United Community Service during the period 1961-65, revealed areas in Outagamie County" where the presence of unwholesome conditions is a potential danger to the whole county."

The report of health services

Set Hearing For Oct. 7

Preliminary Asked By Court-Appointed Attorney for Youth

A preliminary hearing, requested by an attorney for Warren (Pepper) Schroeder, 19, charged with one count of burglary, Friday afternoon was set for Oct. 7 by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Schroeder, of 209 W. Pacific St., who has been confined since Aug. 23, is charged by Appleton police with burglarizing the South Side Service Station, 1623 S. Oneida St., on Aug. 8.

The Appleton youth was arraigned on the burglary charge last Monday at which time he was found indigent and legal counsel was appointed.

Judge Keller Friday ordered that bond be continued at $2,500. Schroeder and Robert V. Krull, 23, also of 209 W. Pacific St., are being held in the county jail in lieu of posting $5,000 bonds each after being charged with attempted armed burglary of the Maritime Tavern Aug. 21.

They are awaiting Circuit Court trial on that charge.

Don't Try To Clean Screen

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: My beaded movie screen has developed a few streaks and soiled areas. These detract a little from the projected pictures. Can you tell me how to clean the screen?

A: Don't try. Any cleaner which will remove soiling will either melt the beads or loosen the adhesive so they'll fall off. Choose between leaving it alone or having it re-beaded by a camera shop.

Q: I am planning on replacing my gravel driveway with concrete. How thick should it be for just normal family use? Should I put in reinforcing wire mesh?

A: Although four inches is considered a minimum safe depth, I suggest you make the concrete six inches thick. You never know when some real heavy truck will come along — either to make a delivery or maybe just to back in to turn around. In such a case, you might find a few cracks. Reinforcing with wire mesh or steel bars is an excellent practice.

Q: Last year we bought an old house. We are troubled by constant cracking in the painted walls of our bedroom — each time we paint it's only a few months before it's as bad as ever. Any ideas?

A: Instead of any repetitions, I suggest covering the walls with what's known as painter's cloth or painter's mullin. This is a very light, close-woven material which is applied like wallpaper and is available where wallpaper is sold. It can be papered or painted over. And it hides any cracks, old or new, forever.

Q: Recently you described a sticky, gelatinous material, called Roost No More, which discourages pigeons from perching where they're not wanted. If this were painted in a band, a foot wide or so, around the trunks of fruit trees, would it prevent caterpillars from crawling up from the ground? Every spring we have a caterpillar invasion which raises havoc with the trees.

A: This idea works very well. It has already been tried and makes a fine caterpillar barrier. I've watched it work two ways. Either the caterpillar comes up to the edge, sniffs and turns back, or he plunges right ahead and gets so stuck he can't budge. A long-time struggle with tent caterpillars, I enjoy watching both performances. This Roost No More is available in garden centers.

New Faculty Wives Feted at Lawrence

New faculty wives at Lawrence University were welcomed to the campus Friday morning with coffee, chrysanthemums and conversation.

The occasion was the year's first meeting of the Lawrence Faculty Women, a group of faculty wives, women emeritae professors and housemothers in the Viking Room of the student union. The informal coffee hour marked the start of a varied program of social and cultural events and special interest activities, ranging from bowling to play reading, planned for the new academic year.

Hostesses were Mrs. Richard W. Winslow and Mrs. Sumner Richman. Mrs. Francis L. Broderick and Mrs. Marwin O. Wroldstad assisted at the coffee table.

The next general program will be a demonstration of flower arranging with fall flowers and leaves by Mrs. Ben R. Schneider Jr. Oct. 11. Mrs. Robert C. Below and Mrs. Clyde E. Rusk will be hostesses.

Members who arrived in Appleton this fall and during the last academic year will take a tour of the campus, led by Miss Marguerite Schumann, Lawrence publicity director, Nov. 17. After the tour, Mrs. Curtis W. Tarr, assisted by Mrs. Walter F. Peterson, will be hostess at a tea for the newcomers.

Mrs. F. Theodore Cloak, curator of the Bergstrom Museum, Neenah, will give the group a guided tour Jan. 19.

Guest Program Dane Purdo, associate professor of art, will talk on "Silver-smithing, Past and Present," Feb. 16 in the Worcester Art Center. Guests will be invited to hear the lecture by Mr. Purdo, recipient of several national craft awards and former student at the Royal College of Art in London. Hostesses for the program will be Mrs. Robert M. Rosenberg and Mrs. Ronald W. Tank.

A luncheon in April will end the year's activities. Officers for 1966-67 are Mrs. Fred Phelps, general chairman; Mrs. Richard W. Winslow, secretary; Mrs. Bradner W. Courson, treasurer; Mrs. Walter Peterson, Mrs. Edwin H. Olson, committee chairmen.

Garment Fiber Gives Clue To Correct Washing Care

Whether a dress is made of Dacron, Kodol, Vycron or Fortrel the clue to care is the same—the name of the fiber family. Polyester is the generic or family name of the fiber while the other names are trade names. Only the family name must appear on a label attached to a garment, according to Lenore Landry, clothing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Learn to know the qualities of a family of fibers. Polyester has wet and dry wrinkle resistance which means it won't become any more wrinkled wet than dry. Any garment made with at least half polyester will hold pleats and creases that are pressed into it.

Polyesters have wicking action. This means the ability for perspiration to come through the fabric and evaporate on the surface. Depending on the weave of the fabric, this can mean a comfortable garment for warm days.

Polyesters have superior wash and wear performance. But, oily stains are difficult to take out if allowed to set for more than 24 hours. Stains need to be treated immediately, even though the garment may not be washed until later. It is a good idea to pretreat the neckline just before washing. Use a liquid heavy duty detergent and rub it into the neckline. Then follow regular washing procedure.

Another point to remember is that chlorine bleach doesn't help in restoring whiteness to polyesters. After repeated washings white fabrics may have a tendency to look dingy yellow. This is because polyesters have an affinity for body oil and give up this soil with some difficulty. When this happens, the fiber needs stripping or reconditioning.

Dissolve 1 cup of nonchlorine automatic diswashing compound in 1 gallon of warm water. Use washing.

a plastic or enameled container. Stir solution with a wooden spoon. Completely immerse polyester garment and let soak overnight. Place container under faucet and overflow rinse for a few minutes. Rub or brush neckline, cuffs or other soiled areas of a garment. Then wash according to recommended procedure given on the label.

Usually polyester is washed in moderately warm water using a light agitation action in the washer. For best results keep the label that comes with the garment and refer to it before using washing.

Fashion Takes Spoofing

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON NEW YORK (AP) — Men have been saying all along that women's clothes these days are funnier than the costumes in a musical comedy.

The worlds of style and theater proved it by joining their talents Sunday night in a production called "A Fashion Dance."

The only plot to this was to elicit funds as painlessly as possible from the packed house at the St. James Theater. At $150 per couple they hustled up $110,000 to match the funds which the American Ballet Theater received recently from the U.S. government.

Norman Norell and designer-producer Oliver Smith coproduced this composite of classic ballet, modern jazz, and synopated style show.

Started There Norell, the dean of American designers, should have felt at home since he began his career in New York creating theatrical costumes. The lobby was as much a fashion spectacle as the stage. Arrivals included Gloria Vanderbilt Cooper and her husband Wyatt; Sen. and Mrs. Jacob K. Javits; the Robert T. Gardiners of Gardiners Island; actress Susan Kohner and her designer husband, John Weitz.

The designers themselves came with devoted, moneyed clients in tow.

Witty Approach The program itself included a series of witticisms in style, such as Rudy Gernreich's pheasant's maned and cat women with masks.

Models often took the exaggerated stances they are famous for in magazine advertisements. At other times they floated or pirouetted or waltzed in glittering garments or diaphanous fabrics.

Between times, such ballet stars as Miss Toni Lander and Bruce Marks and Lupe Serrano and Royes Fernandez gave sufficiently thrilling performances — enough to make the high cost of dressing and the stiff ticket tariff for the special evening worth it.

Fire Department Wage Bargaining Continues

Fire Fighters Seek Increase Totaling $120,000, Request 48 Hour Work Week

Negotiations are continuing between the city's personnel committee and unionized Appleton firemen on a 1967 contract.

The firemen, represented by Local 257 of the International Association of Firefighters, AFL-CIO, had original wage requests which would cost the city an additional $120,000 a year.

In addition, they are seeking one full day's sick leave for each month worked, and an increase in the sick leave accumulation from 90 to 120 days.

Another request was for workmen's compensation to be changed from 30 weeks to an indefinite or unlimited period. The city makes full payment.

There are 94 members on the fire department. Four assistant chiefs are not included in the bargaining unit.

Negotiations began in August with five bargaining sessions since then between city and union representatives.

While progress reportedly had been made in talks to date, no tentative agreement has been reached. However, both sides have taken certain matters under consideration and will workshops from 7:15 to 9 p.m. on "Promoting Your PTA" and "Program Resources."

make their positions known at the next Wednesday's meeting.

Because the fire department will be changing from a 63-hour to a 56-hour work week Jan. 1, 1967, the city will have to hire 10 additional firemen. These positions are in the process of being filled.

Under the arrangement, firemen will be on duty 24 hours and then off 48 hours.

The personnel committee has also scheduled another meeting with police department representatives for Sept. 29 in hopes of reaching final agreement on a new pact.

Appleton to Consider New Curfew Law

In the violation. Youths under 17 years of age are detained at the police station until their parents come and get them, which requires signing a release.

For the first offense, according to the New London ordinance, a warning is issued the violator and the parents.

However, the second offense calls for arrest, and with convictions goes a fine of $10 to $200, plus court costs. In default of payment, the maximum sentence is 90 days in the Waupaca County jail.

Working Well
The New London ordinance was adopted Dec. 15, 1964 and reportedly is working out well in that community.

Milwaukee and several other Wisconsin cities also have curfew laws, some covering age ranges to 21 years.

"Appleton is too beautiful a city to continue to be left wide open to repeated attacks by vandals," Buckley added, "and I believe that a curfew ordinance might tend to curtail these deplorable acts."

"In addition to this, I cannot see how the forcing of young people to be home at a reasonable hour can do any harm to them," Buckley said.

He said, if anything, it would be "most beneficial."

Consolidation Expected In Escapee's Charges

Outagamie One of Five Counties Issuing Warrants Against Kewaunee Held Prisoner

Outagamie County District Attorney Nick Schaefer said today warrants will be issued against Patrick R. Scott, 28, Sauk Rapids, Minn., charging him with a series of burglaries and attempted burglaries in Outagamie County.

Scott was arrested Saturday morning in Kewaunee County after a high speed, 30-block chase. Scott, reportedly an escapee from a state prison farm at Stillwater, Minn., also is being questioned regarding burglaries in Kewaunee, Green, Door and Waupaca counties.

Lt. Jack Zuelzke and Russell Bowers, Outagamie County sheriff's investigators, obtained written statements from Scott Saturday night after his arrest in Algoma. Zuelzke said Scott admitted to nine burglaries or attempts in Outagamie County and one in Waupaca County.

Scott took a lie detector test and was finger printed by assistance to the Outagamie County Board in developing and carrying out "a more adequate county health department."

The burglaries Scott admitted occurred last week in Shiocton; Freedom, 12 Corners and Bear Creek, all in Outagamie County, and Bear Creek Corners, Waupaca County.

Various division heads in the Appleton Department of Inspections will attend the conference, as will building officials from throughout the Fox Cities region.

Menasha School Board, Teachers Miss Pact Date

MENASHA — Proposals for a 1967-68 teachers contract between the members of Menasha Teachers Union Local 1166, AFL-CIO, and the board of education were not exchanged between the two groups Friday. This was the time set for delivery of the individual proposals.

The early exchange of demands and offers was designed to give the two bargaining teams a chance for study before negotiating sessions begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

This morning members of Local 1166 said they had a proposal prepared to exchange with the board of education. The board of education has not yet turned over its proposal to the union.

Negotiating sessions between the union and board opened on Sept. 14 and a short session enabled the two groups to agree on several general rules for conducting the negotiations this year.

Early Court Hearing Asked for Delinquents

Group Suggests Children's Code Revision To Bring Youth and Parents Before Judge

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Proposals that young offenders, suspected of committing a felony, be brought before a court within hours of the crimes have been made to a special study committee of the Legislative Council. An immediate hearing would then determine whether sufficient evidence exists to file a warrant.

Proponents of the measure stated such action would enable state laws governing special legal treatment and rehabilitation for youthful offenders to have immediacy to young persons and their parents.

No Committee Action

Opponents argued that to compel such actions from youths would require children to face additional court proceedings not required of adult offenders.

The council committee studying the children's code in an advisory capacity has taken no action on the proposals.

Purpose of suggested additions to the code is to insure that juveniles, and their parents, are promptly confronted in a court with the seriousness of their actions, and to end the present prompt proceedings if insufficient evidence exists for formalizing court action. Court action would not necessarily follow, as all delay could be reduced substantially.

But in each case in which a felony has been alleged, proponents said the course of the case should rest with a judge, and not with a probation officer, as often happens now.

Should See Judge

"The present practice of (a youth) never seeing a judge or sitting around for a long time before he does may make the juvenile court system Mickey Mouse to a child," said Professor Donald J. Newman of the University of Wisconsin School of Social Work.

Judge Ervin M. Bruner, of Madison, added, "It does not help respect for the law if a kid violates the law two or three times and only goes before a probation officer rather than a judge."

Requiring a youth to appear before a judge for an initial hearing before the issuance of a petition for proceedings in a case compels the youth to comply with legal proceeding not required of an adult in a similar offense. Judge Howard S. Brown of Milwaukee said.

Aid Heavy Loads

The proposals might aid juvenile proceedings in counties with heavy case loads, said Judge Eugene A. Toepel of La Crosse, but it would not necessarily be of advantage in counties with less of a delinquency problem.

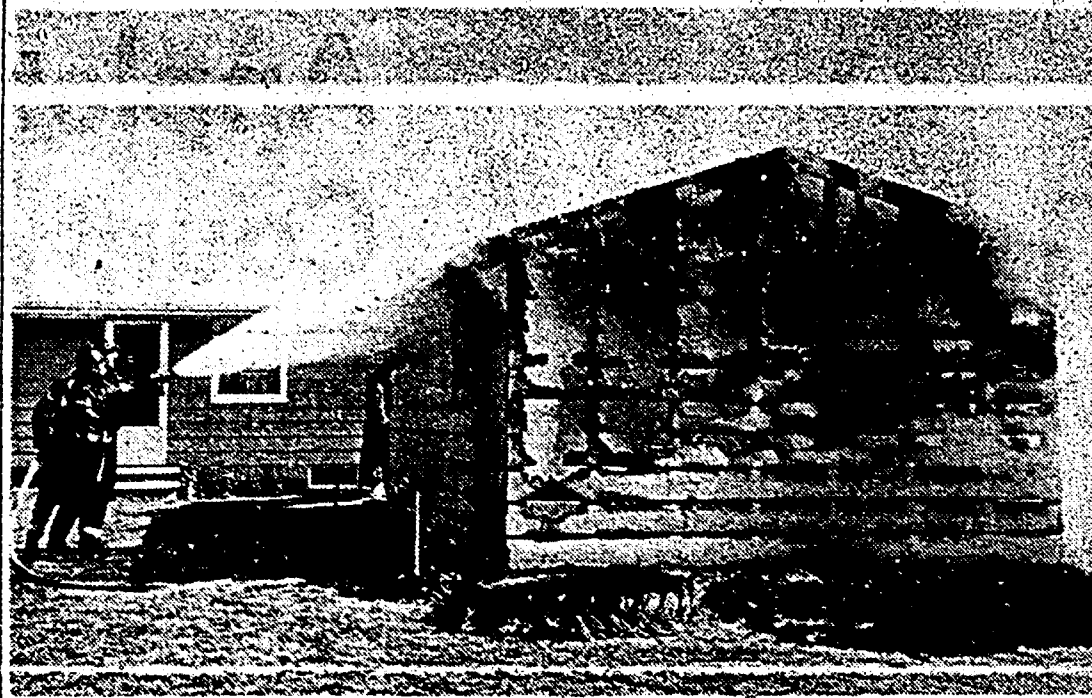

Advisory committee chairman Judge Robert Dean of Wausau said in Marathon county youthful offenders are brought before a judge within 24 to 48 hours after their acts, and that therefore little would be gained from a requirement that children confront a judge within 24 hours.

Bruner said such offenders are not brought before a court their actions, and to end the present prompt proceedings if insufficient evidence exists for formalizing court action. Court action would not necessarily follow, as all delay could be reduced substantially.

Study Proposals

The committee, which will report on possible revisions to the code to the 1967 Legislature in January, decided to study the proposals further before taking action.

In other action the committee voted to make the decision of a request for waiver of jurisdiction to criminal court of a case involving a youth in a felony case appealable directly to the state Supreme Court, rather than to a circuit court. The committee also recommended that youths be required to have counsel, appointed if necessary, at all stages of waiver proceedings.

Campaign Closely Watched

Political Arithmetic Key In Race-Steiger Contest

BY CLIFF MILLER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH - MENASHA — The

Viet Nam conflict, the economy and local issues are being hammered heavily in the Sixth Congressional District as elsewhere in the nation as the key topics of the current campaign.

But Rep. John A. Race, Fond du Lac, the incumbent Democrat, and his challenger, Assemblyman William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, both know that simple arithmetic is the fuel on which the hotly contested campaign is being run.

The support of national party figures in the efforts of both candidates underscores the fact that both political organizations have placed high value on the Sixth District congressional seat. The seat is one of a net total of 38 the Republicans lost in 1964, and recovery of as few as 35 in November could tip the power balance in Congress dramatically back toward the Republicans and rob President Johnson of the firm working majority that has powered a major portion of his proposals into the law books.

A current Fortune Magazine article spells out the arithmetic of the campaign, pointing out how 35 additional House seats besides the current Republican representation of 140 men could upset the Democratic majority, by working with an average of 60 Southern Democrats who frequently vote against administration measures.

Using welfare measures as an example, the article points out that at present the Administration can count on roughly 235 of the 435 House votes on welfare legislation, assuming that the 60 dissident Democrats and the entire Republican delegation votes as a block. This still results in a majority of 17 Democrat votes.

If the Democrats should lose the 35 seats which many observers have said could go back to the Republicans in November, this would give the GOP - Southern Democrat combination a total of about 245 term Republican incumbent, by stronger majority than the administration forces can claim under present circumstances.

"In practice, Johnson will be in trouble on welfare votes with the loss of even 25 seats," the article observes.

The lineup on other than welfare issues could be expected to be different, with the Southern Democrats swinging their weight in either direction in different proportions. But the Dixie delegation would regain its strength as a third force to be reckoned with in deliberations on major Congressional business.

In Sheboygan last week, former Vice President Richard Nixon was asked about how the GOP would use the additional 40 to 50 seats some observers have said the party might gain. Before answering the question, he observed that "as many as 30 seats" would be useful in swinging the power balance back in the direction of the Republicans.

While not denying the party has hopes of recovering still more strength, his remark seemed intended to show that the party would not be entirely unhappy with a smaller recovery score.

Arithmetic is also spurring the candidates on in other ways in the Sixth District race.

Race was one of 13 Democratic congressmen who won the 1964 election with less than a 1 per cent plurality. He ousted William K. Van Pelt, the seven-term Republican incumbent, by less than 2,000 votes, including many which would have been in the GOP column last year.

Whether the past two years of being represented by a Democrat may have convinced some of the formerly Republican voters to vote Democratic again this fall is a key question to be answered in the final six weeks of the campaign.

On the national level, Nixon said in Sheboygan last week, "the survival of the Republican Party" hangs on the answer to that question and its effect on the outcome of the election.

Market Dips Irregularly

Losses Among Key Stocks Outnumber Few Advances

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market edged irregularly lower early this afternoon although selected issues showed strength. Losses of fractions to a point among key stocks outnumbered gainers.

The trend was lower among autos, chemicals, drugs, tobaccos, rails nonferrous metals, oils and utilities.

Some of the color television, other electronic and photographic issues were strong.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.0 at 284.5 with industrials off 1.3, rails off .8 and utilities off .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.00 at 787.97.

Du Pont Decline

Averages were depressed by Du Pont's decline exceeding 3 points and by losses of more than a point by General Motors and General Electric.

On the brighter side, Polaroid ran up 4 points on word from the company that demand for its cameras is so great that cameras must be allocated to dealers.

Zenith, up more than a point, also put on a strong showing as it reported record sales and earnings. Fractional gains were posted by United, Eastern and Pan American airlines.

Most of the stock list, however, showed little ambition. Prices rose in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Michael's Kicks 5 Field Goals As Colts Trim 49ers, 36-14

Haymond, Lorick Also Lauded by Shula for Big Roles in Victory

By GEORGE BOWEN
BALTIMORE (AP) — Great pressure individual performances by Alvin Haymond on defense and Tony Lorick on offense were cited by Coach Don Shula of the Baltimore Colts in evaluating their 36-14 victory Sunday over the San Francisco 49ers.

Coupled with a National Football League tying record five field goals by Lou Michaels and the "finest all round defense I ever saw played," they brought Shula his second victory in three games.

Rival Coach Jack Christiansen concurred with Shula on the selection of Haymond and the over-all Colt defense as keys to the outcome.

Game Ball to Michaels
The Colts themselves voted the game ball to Michaels, 30-year-old veteran of nine NFL seasons.

"It was a tough decision to make by the players," said Shula, who didn't get involved.

"I guess the players figured how often do you kick five field goals in one game. In addition, Lou played a great defensive game."

Sula and Christiansen both mentioned blitzing and stunting by the Colt defense as outstanding. Broidie was so puzzled that twice he was penalized for delay in calling a play and he was thrown five times for losses of 38 yards.

With Michaels' field goals, the Colts led 22-7 and added two touchdowns in the last quarter before San Francisco scored a makes-no-difference touchdown by subs half a minute before the end of the game.

"Lorick turned in a great performance, being under pressure knowing he had to do it all," said Shula. "So did Haymond. If either of them faltered, we would have to turn to rookies."

Great Performance
Lorick was the only experienced fullback with Jerry Hill out with a broken hand bone and Haymond was the lone veteran at defensive safety with Jim Welch sidelined with a fractured foot.

Lorick, hampered his first two seasons with the Colts by injuries, rushed 18 times for 110 yards and caught a pass for 19.

Haymond, also in his third pro season, was his usual daring self on kick returns and in addition was a terror as free safety.

He made a couple of tackles behind the line of scrimmage on safety blitzes, broke up several passes with jarring blocks on receivers and intercepted a pass which Coach Christiansen termed one of the game's turning points.

Had Recovered Fumble
The 49ers had recovered a Colt fumble at midfield near the end of the half. With the Colts leading only 9-7, Christiansen said, "If we had got on the scoreboard even with a field goal we would have been in the ball game."

Instead, Haymond intercepted a pass on his 17 and three plays later the Colts had a touchdown on a 57-yard pass play by quarterback John Unitas and end John Mackey.

Meredith Survives Poor Start Cowboys Squeak by Vikings

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas' frequently sputtering offense managed three 80-yard scoring marches, one in each of the last three quarters, as the Cowboys defeated the Minnesota Vikings 28-17 Sunday and remained unbeaten in the National Football League.

Fran Tarkenton, Minnesota's scrambling quarterback, punctured Dallas' pass defense, and fullback Bill Brown blasted its line but the Vikings' offense stalled when it needed the big play.

Don Meredith, harassed by the Minnesota line and completing only eight of 22 passes, passed 37 yards to swift Bob Hayes to cut the Vikings' 10-point lead to 10-7 at halftime, ran four yards to score in the third period and a 14-10 margin, then passed eight yards to Buddy Dial for the clinching touchdown early in the final period.

Added Insurance
The Cowboys, beating Minnesota for the second time this year, added an insurance touchdown on Dav Reeves' 11-yard run with less than two minutes in the game.

Tarkenton used 48 passes and completed 19 for 245 yards and both touchdowns. Meredith, who threw eight straight incomplete passes in the first half, was credited with 153 yards.

Tom Hall hauled in a six-yard Tarkenton pass for a second quarter touchdown after Fred Cox kicked a 23-yard field goal in the opening period.

Tarkenton's other touchdown pass, a 15-yarder to Jim Lindsey, gave the Vikings, still seeking their first victory of the season, a brief 17-14 lead in the third period.

Deepest Penetration
Dallas' deepest penetration was to the Minnesota 20 before the Cowboys exploded 80 yards in eight plays for a touchdown in the second quarter.

Meredith was credited with his first official pass completion after nearly 25 minutes when he pitched 10 yards to Frank Clarke to start the scoring march. His second completion in 12 attempts in the first half went to Hayes for the score.

The Cowboys straightened out at the start of the third quarter and again drove 80 yards, using nine plays to go in front.

Reeves' 29-yard pass to Dial put Dallas on the Minnesota four.

Needed 11 Plays
Dallas needed 11 plays to cover 80 yards the third time. Meredith passed 19 to Dial, 25 to Pettis Norman and 23 to Reeves before Dial made a diving end-zone catch.

The Cowboys' offense showed the effects of running back Mel Renfro being sidelined with injuries.

Brown picked up 115 yards on 20 rushes for Minnesota but the Vikings' outside threat was absent when Tommy Mason was hurt the first time he carried the ball in the opening period. He never returned.

Packers Beat Rams, Take Undisputed Western Lead

Los Angeles Rally Falls Short; 80-Yard Pass Play, Starr-to-Pitts, Seals Win

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — The Packers unleashed a rock-ribbed defense, a pair of Paul Hornung touchdowns and a big, beautiful aerial bomb in Lambeau Field Sunday afternoon.

These heroics added up to a rugged 24 to 13 decision over the troublesome Los Angeles Rams in a real fingernail chewer before 50,861 fans.

The Rams came here with fire in their eyes and upset in their hearts — not to mention a 2-0 record . . . but the Packers met the challenge like the champions they are and marched off the field as the only unbeaten (3-0) team in the Western Division.

Rams Storm Back
The Packers took a 17-0 lead in the first 2 1/2 minutes and it appeared that a picnic was underway. But the Rams stormed back to within four points, 17-14, before Bart Starr and Elijah Pitts collaborated on an 80-yard touchdown pass early in the fourth quarter.

The defense proceeded to blank the Rams in the last eight minutes . . . and the stage thus was set for next Sunday's struggle against the Detroit Lions in Lambeau Field. The Lions (2-1) warmed up yesterday with a 28-7 victory over the Falcons.

Green Bay's defense permitted the Rams a fantastically-low 2.6 yards per play, threw quarterback Roman Gabriel eight times for 57 yards in losses . . . and came to the rescue when the Packer offense lost five fumbles.

The Bay scorers had their moments, producing touchdowns twice within six minutes late in the first quarter and early in the second — first on Bart Starr's 6-yard touchdown and then on Hornung's 4-yard smash to make it 14-0. Don Chandler kicked a 14-yard field goal midway in the second quarter.

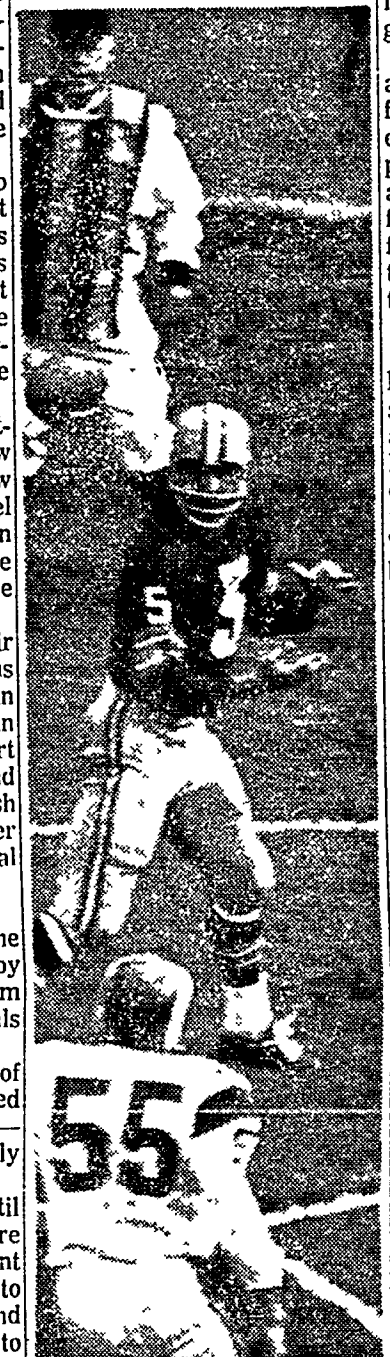

2 Field Goals
Just before the half, the Rams recovered fumbles by Starr and Pitts and turned them into 13 and 35-yard field goals by Bruce Gossett.

The Rams' only TD march of the day — 54 yards and topped by Dick Bass' 8-yard run — ended the Rams' scoring early in the third period.

And that's how it stood until Starr, under heavy pressure from the Rams' giant front four, sailed a 30-yard pass to Pitts who took the ball around the 50 and outraced Irv Cross to play dirt after Billy Anderson blocked out Maxie Baughan.

It was something like lightning striking twice against the same foe. In Los Angeles last year, Zeke Bratkowski and Pitts worked an 80-yard pass in the Pack's 21-10 loss.

Sunday's show had two phases. The Bays dominated the first half and the Rams did the ball moving but couldn't score in the second half. LA didn't get a first down until late in the

Lombardi Praises Defense for Excellent Job Against Rams

'Gold Plated,' Says Vince Of Victory

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — As the press corps expectantly clustered about Vince Lombardi's desk in a corner of his dressing room office at Lambeau Field Sunday afternoon, a Los Angeles columnist suggested the Packers' just completed exchange with the Rams had not been a "sterling game."

Lombardi, a 24 - 13 winner, smiled benignly in the Angelo's direction, but took bland exception to his premise. "We thought it was sterling," he said. "Any time I win, I think it's sterling . . . I think it's gold plated."

It could not be considered an amendment of this somewhat facetious observation, but the ex - block of granite shortly pointed out, "We gave the ball away five times—I think it was five times. Take nothing away from the Rams, but it's tough to give the ball away that many times and win."

Smile Vanishes
Lombardi's smile subsequently vanished when a Milwaukee scribe wondered if he felt his athletes had suffered a second half letdown. "Letdown?" he erupted. "I don't know what the matter with you writers. That was a pretty good football team we were playing . . . We were lucky to come out alive."

Hastily switching to another tack, the same reporter asked for an assessment of the Packer defense. "Excellent," Lombardi declared, adding for emphasis, "excellent."

"Starr had a great day, too," he volunteered, almost in the same breath. "In the first half, he must have completed everything he threw."

"The wind also was a factor," Lombardi appended in this connection. "Not only for us—for both teams."

Always Tough
Had he found the Rams improved over a year ago? I don't like to compare such things," he said. "But I think the Rams are always tough defensively. When you go against four guys like that (the Rams' awesome front four of Davey Jones, Rosey Grier, Merlin Olsen and Lamar Lundy), it's pretty tough."

"I thought we did a fine job of protecting Starr, however, against the best four in the business . . . at least, they're the best four I've seen this season."

"I also thought we had a

Plum Directs Lions to Win Over Falcons
Completes 13 of First 16 Passes In 28-10 Victory

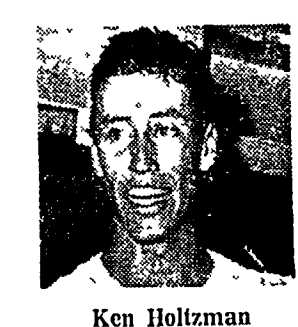

By BERNIE KENNEDY
DETROIT (AP) — Milt Plum threw two touchdown passes and directed a pair of long scoring drives in leading the Detroit Lions to a 28-10 National Football League victory over the Atlanta Falcons Sunday.

Plum, who completed 13 of his first 16 passes, pitched 13 yards to Gail Cogdill for the first Detroit touchdown and hit Tom Nowatzke from the six for the final score.

Joe Don Looney raced 24 yards around left end and Nowatzke bulled in from two yards out in the second quarter as the Lions jumped to a 21-7 halftime lead. Looney's score capped a 63-yard drive and Nowatzke's capped a 75-yard march.

The Falcons, aided by a pass interference call which put the ball on the Lions 15, scored

Be Creative, Make Your Own Cardboard Tote Bag

By CAPPY DICK

A tote bag (girls may prefer to call it a hand bag) is easy to make from a single piece of cardboard.

Use One Piece of Cardboard. Figure 1 shows the pattern. Cardboard that is sturdy, yet sufficiently pliable to bend without cracking, is the kind to use.

Figure 2 shows how the bag looks after creases have been made to form the flat bottom and the sides have been curved upward and fastened to the ends with mending tape. The handles are pieces of heavy cord similar to the handles of shopping bags, taped to the inside of the cardboard. The opening at the top should be about two inches wide and runs from one end of the bag to the other.

The only thing remaining is to decorate the outside of the bag. This may be done with crayons, cutouts, paints or other methods. Wallpaper, for example may be used to cover the outside. In Figure 3, yellow and brown crayons were used to apply a basket weave design. The ends were decorated with pictures of a movie character.

Pitts Tosses Bouquet To Bill Anderson for Block on 80-Yard TD

GREEN BAY — Although he beamed anew at mention of his big moment, Elijah Pitts' first thought — characteristically enough — was to toss a bouquet toward a colleague.

"Old Andy (Bill Anderson) took out a good one for me," the muscular pride of Philander Smith, now resplendent in a beige and green sports outfit as he prepared to leave the "office" for the day, confided as he happily reconstructed his highly opportune 80-yard pass-run collaboration with Bart Starr in the fourth quarter of Sunday's 24-13 conquest of the Los Angeles Rams in Lambeau Field.

"This one guy, whoever he was, could have got me," Pitts informed, "but Andy knocked him down ... the rest I had a fairly decent start on."

Elijah, who outran a cluster of Rams to the goal line with gratifying ease, was removed from the pack's kickoff team (he is a regular member of that unit) on the ensuing kickoff. Had he been winded?

"Not necessarily," the 6-year veteran grinned. "I was so excited, I didn't even notice ... but, actually, when you get a good lead on somebody like I did in that case, it isn't too tiring."

He hadn't asked, then, to be relieved on the kickoff team? "No, I never ask," Pitts replied, rolling his eyes in mock alarm, suggesting that such a request would not be happily received by headmaster Vince Lombardi. "Even if you have to walk down the field," he said gravely, "you never ask to be taken out for that."

The author of that clutch bomb, Bart Starr, praised his pass protection, better than at any time in recent memory against the Rams' mastodon front four. "I thought, for the most part, it was real good," he said. Adding fervently, "When you go against those guys, you have a job on your hands."

Had he been exploiting a specific weakness, he was asked, with a series of short passes to Carroll Dale? "No, we had just hoped to throw that particular pass, the Pack's all-time field general said. Starr, who had hurled for an imposing 257 yards, said, "So we were sticking with it. It's just an out pattern to the wing ... they had it covered later."

The enemy, he disclosed in reply to another question, had forced both of his fumbles, recovered by the Rams. "On one, Maxie Baughan (LA linebacker) caused me to fumble," he said. "I turned around to throw and he was right in my face. I spun around and dropped the ball ... on the other one, I just lost it. They caused it."

Massive Marv Fleming, whose 57-yard ramble with one of Starr's 13 completions in 20 attempts set up the Packers' first touchdown, asked with an incredulous smile, "Was that the 6-yard-line I got to? It looked like I had 26 to go — it seemed like a long ways."

Explaining how he became a "lonesome end" on the play, the 235-pound Utah U. alumnus reported, "Lamson (Chuck), the safety man, was going to block me, so I ran into him. I got my balance — I'm so much bigger than he is, made my move off him and I was open."

Dale, who was Starr's favorite target on this occasion (he caught 6 for 76 yards), quipped, "I was due ... seriously, you contribute what you can whenever you can, blocking or whatever it may be. Of course, you always like to catch the ball. The big thing, though, is just being with a winner — especially coming from a loser," said the soft-spoken Tennesseean, a Ram for five seasons before coming to the Pack last year.

Bob Jeter (who saved a second quarter touchdown when his diving "tip" deflected a Roman Gabriel pass out of the straining hands of Jack Snow on the Green Bay goal line, had hopes of doing better than that, he confessed.

"I thought I would have a chance to pick it," Jeter grinned. "I wanted that one."

Tom Brown had adopted the same approach in his timely recovery of a Ram fumble on the Packers 16 in the fourth quarter. "It was just laying there," Tom said, adding, "I started to fall on it. Then I decided to pick it up and see what I could do with it."

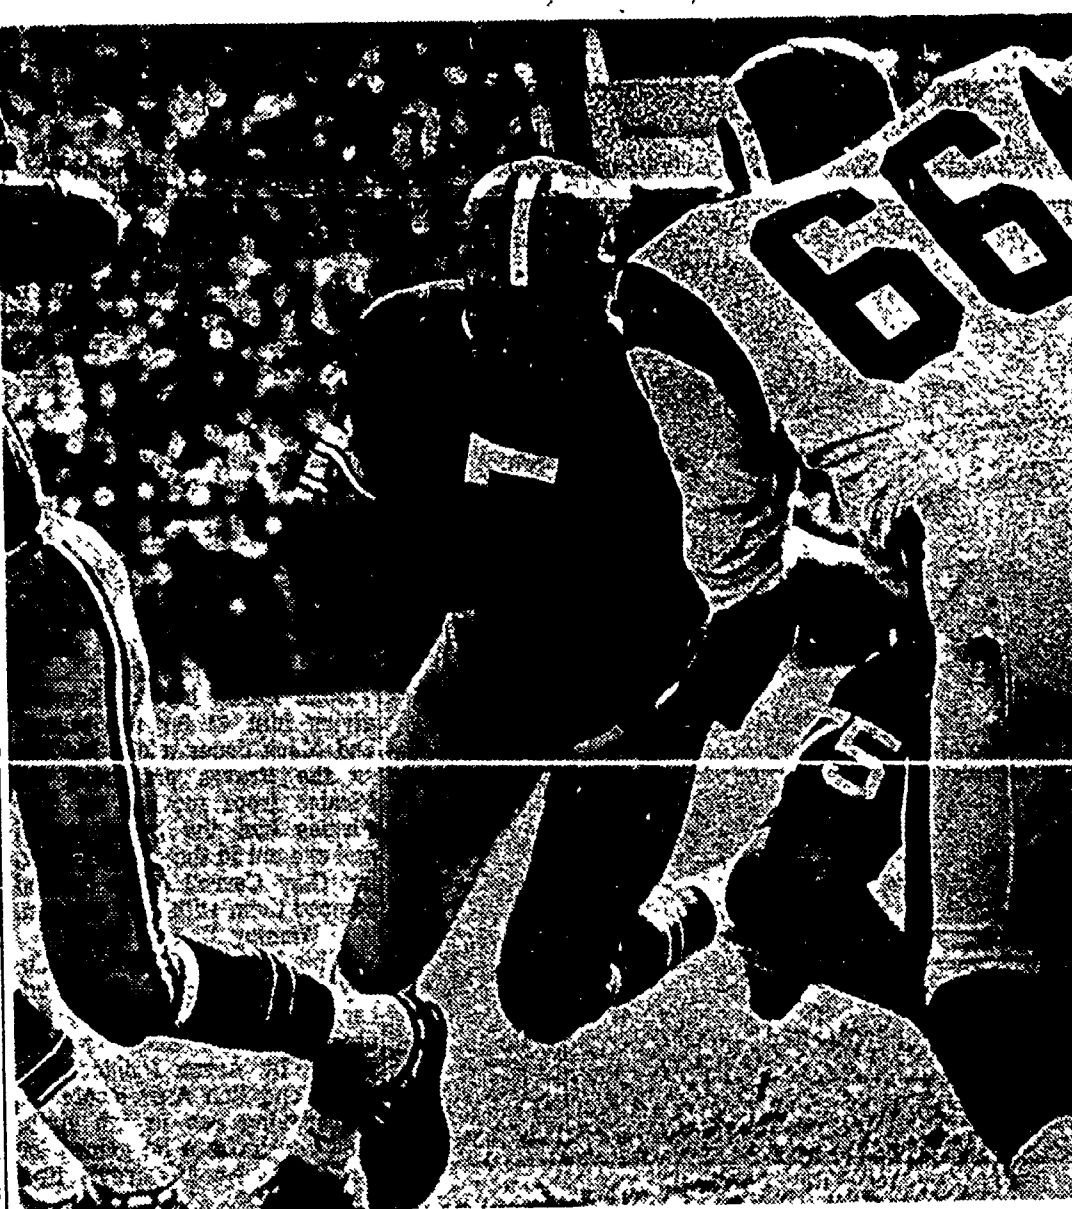

Brown, who advanced four yards before being borne to the turf by a blue-and-white avalanche, imparted with a puckish grin, "I like to stand around and pick up garbage."

For the offensive line, it had been a harrowing afternoon, a much relieved Fuzzy Thurston confessed. "It's so hairy in there you wouldn't believe it," he said with a rueful smile. "It's like looking up at a mountain and trying to find a way to scale it ... and they're as good as they say they are."

"If I get any shorter," the 6-1 guard added dryly, "I'm going to have to get me some high-heeled shoes."

Another member of the attacking unit, Ken Bowman, was unhappy with himself. "My Pride's hurt a little bit," said the ex-Wisconsin Star, who re-injured a shoulder in the second quarter.

"I was trying to get cute and cut down the middle linebacker," he explained glumly, "instead of just hitting him. I got all my weight on one hand because I flew at him, and the shoulder just popped out ... I should have been sticking him anyway, so it was my fault."

Paul Hornung (5) runs for daylight to score the Packers' second touchdown in Sunday's National Football League game against Los Angeles in Green Bay. He eluded the grasp of the Rams' Myron Pottios (66). (Post-Crescent News Service Photo)

That bruising citizen, Ray Nitschke, shrugged off all felicitations on his performance by countering with a universal accolade for the defense. "We all played good," he said, noting, "I'm not trying to be modest. I'm got a job to do, like everybody else, and I just hope I do it."

"I'm very proud to be playing with a bunch of guys like we've got on our defense," the all-pro linebacker added with fervor. "They've got a lot of poise — they stayed in there."

"The Rams do have a very potent attack — it's just that we wanted to win more than they did. We had guys out here who were hurt, and still they played."

The Block by Green Bay end Bill Anderson (88) that sprung Elijah Pitts loose for his 80-yard scamper with a Bart Starr pass in the fourth period Sunday is shown above. Anderson eliminated Los Angeles' defensive back Ed Meador (21) on the play and Pitts (22) raced unmolested into the end zone. Rams' linebacker Maxie Baughan trails the play. Packers Score 24-13 Victory Over Rams

After Chandler and Jon Kilgore exchanged punts to start the game, Starr opened a 70-yard, 7-play touchdown drive with a 12-yard toss to Dale to the right. Two plays later, he hit Dale for 11 yards wide to the left.

Then Starr came down the middle, hitting Fleming for a 37-yard gain to the Ram 6. After Hornung was held for no gain, Hornung and Taylor flooded the left side and Hornung took Starr's pass in the end zone going away. Chandler converted at 12:32 for a 7-0 lead.

The Packers forced a third straight Ram punt, this time stripping Gabriel for two losses totaling nine yards, and the Packers went on another trip — a shortie of 33 yards, set up by Kilgore's 28-yard punt.

Starr and Hornung traded 5-yard pass completions and Starr ran six yards to the 21 on the first play of the second quarter. After Taylor made four, Starr hit Dale to the left for 10 to the seven. Three plays later, Hornung cut four yards in behind Taylor on the left side for the TD. Chandler converted at 3:12.

Robinson Intercepts

With Ray Nitschke making a last-second adjustment and sending Robinson back, Robinson leaped high to snare a Gabriel pass aimed at Truax and the Bays were in good position on the Ram 13. After an incomplete pass, Taylor reached the six at right guard and after Starr lost a yard trying to pass, Chandler hit his field goal from the 14 at 6:30.

Before the half ended, Starr fumbled on his own 19 and Baughan recovered, setting off Gossett's field goal from the 13 at 11:01, after which Pitts fumbled and Cross recovered to set up Gossett's 3-pointer from the 35 at 14:35.

Kilgore and Chandler traded punts to start the second half and the Rams proceeded to move 54 yards in nine plays for their lone TD. Gabriel opened with passes to Moore and Truax for 12 yards and Bass made 13 yards in two trips, reaching the Packer 29. Moore then cracked for eight, Gabriel passed to Truax for 12. Moore made one and finally Bass, on a draw, zipped eight yards up the middle for the TD. Gossett converted and it was a 17-13 game at 7:50 of the third period.

A real dogfight set in at this point. Starr hit Hornung with a 39-yard pass up the middle but Paul fumbled as he was hit by Chuck Lamson on the Ram 36. Three punts followed, but on the first play of the fourth quarter the situation grew serious when Starr fumbled when hit by Dave Jones, who also recovered, on the first play of the fourth quarter.

The Rams took over on their own 36 and Moore led off with a 15-yard jaunt to midfield. The Bays stiffened and Gossett tried a field goal from the 48 — into

Snead, Retzlaff Lead Eagles to 35-17 Victory

Philadelphia QB Hurls 3 TD Passes In Win Over Giants

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Quarterback Norm Snead threw three touchdown passes, including one to tight end Pete Retzlaff whose catches set up two other scores, as the Philadelphia Eagles defeated the New York Giants 35-17 Sunday in a National Football League game.

The Eagles won their second in three games on a one-yard touchdown plunge by halfback Timmy Brown in the first quarter, and scoring a field goal from Snead of seven yards to Brown and 37 yards to Retzlaff that built a 21-3 halftime lead.

In the second half, Snead found fullback Earl Gros for a 30-yard TD and Gros romped across from the one after a 36-yard pass interference penalty gave the Eagles a first down at the New York goal line.

Giants Haven't Won

The Giants, who have yet to win this season with two defeats and a tie, scored on an 18-yard field goal by Pete Gogolak in the second period after trailing 21-0 and cut the margin to 21-11 with a 34-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Earl Morrall to flanker Homer Jones in the third quarter.

Snead completed 10 of 18 passes for 179 yards and three scores while Retzlaff caught five for 120 yards and a TD. After Gogolak misfired with a field goal attempt from the 32 early in the opening period, the Eagles marched 80 yards on nine plays for the first score. Snead passed 22 yards and 39 yards to Retzlaff setting up Brown's one-yard TD.

Intercepts Pass

Linebacker Dave Lloyd intercepted a Morrall pass and returned 24 yards to the Giants' 11, setting up Brown's second TD, a seven-yard pass from Snead in the second period which made it 14-0. Despite faceblocking—called by the official—Retzlaff made a great catch in the end zone for a 37-yard touchdown that made it 21-0.

New York's Dan Lewis raced 57 yards to the Philadelphia 13 late in the half to set up Gogolak's 18-yard field goal, and after the intermission, Morrall directed a nine-play, 85-yard drive climaxed by the quarterback's 34-yard pass for a TD to the fleet Jones. Except for an eight-yard touchdown pass from reserve quarterback Gary Wood to Joe Morrison in the waning minutes, the wind, but fell 10 yards short. Wood fielded the ball and was hit back on his own 8.

Nailed For Loss

Starr was nailed for a 5-yard loss and Chandler wound up punting from his own end zone. He botched a 39-yarder and the Rams got in position on the Packer 35. Again the Pack defense came to the rescue and the Rams tried the field goal, this time Gossett missing from the 40.

That was it — Two plays later, Starr and Pitts dropped the bomb and Chandler converted for 24-13 at 6:18.

The Rams controlled the ball for six minutes and 14 plays but again the defense pulled the big play, T. Brown recovering Josephson's fumble on the 20.

After Pitts ran twice for a first down, Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski made their appearance but Donny fumbled after Grabowski made four yards and the Rams had one last chance from the Packer 43. The clock ran out with Gabriel attempting his sixth straight pass from the Packer 35.

Only Bright Light

Their only bright light was Morrall's 14 completions for 25 and 181 yards.

The Eagles applied the crusher in the third quarter when, with a fourth down and five yards to go, punter Sam Baker caught the New York defenders peeling off and ran for a first down that kept alive a touchdown drive. Clarence Childs interfered with Ron Goodwin at the New York one on a 36-yard pass from Snead, and Gros on the next play virtually walked through the Giants for the final score.

Dawson's Passes Lead Chiefs Over Patriots, 43 to 24

Jets Rally to Beat Broncos, 16-7; Buffalo Interceptions Trip Oilers

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Lew Dawson, who wasn't even listed among the American Football League's leaders last week, is batting a cool .600 to day, a pretty good average for any pitcher.

Dawson gunned five touchdown passes, three of them to Chris Burford, as Kansas City routed Boston 43-24 in its third straight victory Sunday.

The Chiefs' attack moved mostly along the ground in Kansas City's first two triumphs with Dawson attempting only 28 passes and completing 16. Quarterbacks with less than 30 attempts were not included in the AFL list of top passers last week so Dawson missed the cutoff.

He's not likely to miss it this week.

Against the Patriots' Dawson completed 20 of the 32 passes he attempted for 220 yards.

Dawson, a 10-year pro, now has completed 36 for 60 ... a 600 percentage ... and thrown 10 touchdown passes. He has gained 511 yards through the air.

Elsewhere in the AFL Sunday, New York and San Diego preserved their unbeaten records while Buffalo stepped back into the Eastern Division race.

The Jets, down 7-0 at the half, rallied to beat Denver 16-7. San Diego got three interceptions from Speedy Duncan and defeated Oakland 25-20. Buffalo beat Houston 27-20 when Hagood Clarke intercepted a George Blanda pass with 27 seconds to play and returned it 66 yards for a TD.

Denver threw a scare into the Jets but two third period field goals by Jim Turner kept New York within striking distance and Joe Namath finally hit Matt Snell with a five-yarder in the final period for the winning score. Turner added another field goal after the TD.

Solid Quarterbacking

Duncan's interceptions and John Hadl's solid quarterbacking led the Chargers to their third straight victory. Hadl ran for one TD, passed 19 yards to Jacques McKinnon for another, and set up a third with a 44-yard aerial to Lance Alworth.

Clarke stole Blanda's 52nd pass of the game and raced into the Oiler end zone for Buffalo's winning TD against Houston. The interception came with 27 seconds to play and then Clarke grabbed another Blanda pass with three seconds remaining, ending Houston's last hope.

The victory left Buffalo and Houston tied with 2-2 records in the East behind New York's 3-0, Kansas City and San Diego share the Western lead with 3-0 marks.

real good rush on Gabriel (LA quarterback Roman)."

Had he called the fourth quarter play which spawned the Packers' final touchdown, an 80-yard Starr to Elijah Pitts collaboration? "Everything is done as a team," the Packers headmaster replied. "No one player, no one coach, not even me, makes such a decision alone."

Similar Play

"It was the same pass," he continued. "Starr hit to Hornung earlier (a 39-yard strike which ended in a fumble and a Los Angeles recovery). It was the same thing, it wasn't the identical play, but it was similar enough so to call it the same play."

Asked about the condition of Hornung, who was injured on the play and did not return, Lombardi said, "It's nothing serious." He added with a pish smile, "he just wanted a rest."

And Ken Bowman (the Pack's third year center also was a casualty late in the second quarter)? "Bowman had a shoulder dislocation about a month ago and the shoulder just went out on him again," Vince reported.

Five in a Row

Later, as he summed up his analysis for the fourth estate, Lombardi observed, not without a modicum of satisfaction, "Well, that's five in a row now."

with 31 seconds remaining in the first half when Ernie Wheelwright plunged in from a yard out on fourth down.

Marion Rushing intercepted a Plum pass early in the third quarter to set up a 40-yard field goal by Lou Kirovac for Atlanta's final points.

Alex Karras recovered a Falcon fumble on the Atlanta 14 to set the stage for Plum's first scoring pass and Darris McCord pounced on another fumble at the Atlanta 21 to set up the final Lions' touchdown.

Atlanta's Tommy Tolleson recovered a fumble on the Detroit 11 late in the fourth quarter but the Falcons, who have yet to post a victory in their first NFL season, lost six yards in four plays.

Plum completed seven of eight passes in the first quarter, his only incomplete pass coming when the ball hit the goal post on a pass headed for the end zone.

The Falcons moved from their own 28 to the Detroit 35 midway through the third quarter only to lose the ball on another fumble after rookie quarterback Randy Johnson had completed a pass to Angelo Coia at the Detroit 15. Wayne Rasmussen recovered the fumble after Coia had dropped the ball.

Allen's Brother, Hank, Triggers Senator Sweep

Chance's 6-Hitter Stops Baltimore, Twins Blank Tigers

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hank Allen, older brother of Philadelphia slugger Rich Allen, wound up his first week in the majors Sunday with a six-hit spree that led the Washington Senators to a 6-4, 2-1 doubleheader sweep over Chicago.

The rookie outfielder, promoted from the Senators' Hawaii farm club last week, lashed six hits in nine trips to the plate, driving in two runs in the opener and singling across the winning run in the 11th inning of the nightcap.

Overcoming Rich, who walked his 40th homer and three other hits for the Phillies Sunday, won't be easy for the 26-year-old newcomer, but Hank has made Washington go during his short stay.

Batting at .417 Clips

He slugged a three-run homer in Friday night's 5-4 victory over the White Sox and has batted at a .417 clip, with 10 hits in 24 at-bats, since joining the Senators.

In Sunday's other games, California whipped AL champion Baltimore 6-1; Cleveland trimmed Kansas City 4-2; Minnesota nipped Detroit 1-0 and New York beat Boston 3-1.

California snapped Baltimore's shutout streak in the first inning and went on to whip the Orioles behind Dean Chance's six-hit pitching and a three-run homer by rookie Charlie Vinson. Phoebus had pitched shutouts in his first two appearances, blanking Chance and the Angels in his debut Sept. 15.

The Indians scored three runs in the ninth, overtaking Kansas City, after being checked for eight innings by rookie Jim Nash. Nash was yanked after walking the first man he faced in the ninth and the A's bullpen broke down as Max Alvis and Chico Salmon stroked run-scoring singles around Vic Davall's sacrifice fly.

Tony Oliva's 25th homer, a lead-off shot in the ninth, lifted Minnesota past the Tigers, breaking up a pitching duel between winner Jim Kaat, 25-11, and Detroit's Earl Wilson.

Steve Whitaker and Bill Bryan hit successive homers in the second inning, backing Jim Bouton's strong pitching as the Yankees outscored the Red Sox.

Brotherhood Week Vice Chairmen Set

George A. Howden One of Seven Appointed to State Leadership

The appointment of George A. Howden, 28 River Drive, as a state vice chairman of 1967 Brotherhood Week was announced today by the state chairman, Justice Nathan Heffernan of the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

Seven state vice-chairmen were appointed. In addition to Howden they are John H.

Company. He is a member of the executive board, Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America; vice-president, Appleton Industrial Development Corporation; member of the board of directors, United Community Services; vice president of the board, Vocational and Adult School, and in 1958 received the Distinguished Citizen's Award from the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Brotherhood Week, sponsored annually by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will be observed February 19-26, 1967. It serves as a focus for the program, which attempts to point out ways in which the practice of brotherhood can be extended to all parts of community life throughout the year.

Under the above Wisconsin leaders, every county in the state will organize a committee to enlist the participation of schools, religious and community organizations. More than 1,000 citizens will help promote Brotherhood Week in Wisconsin.

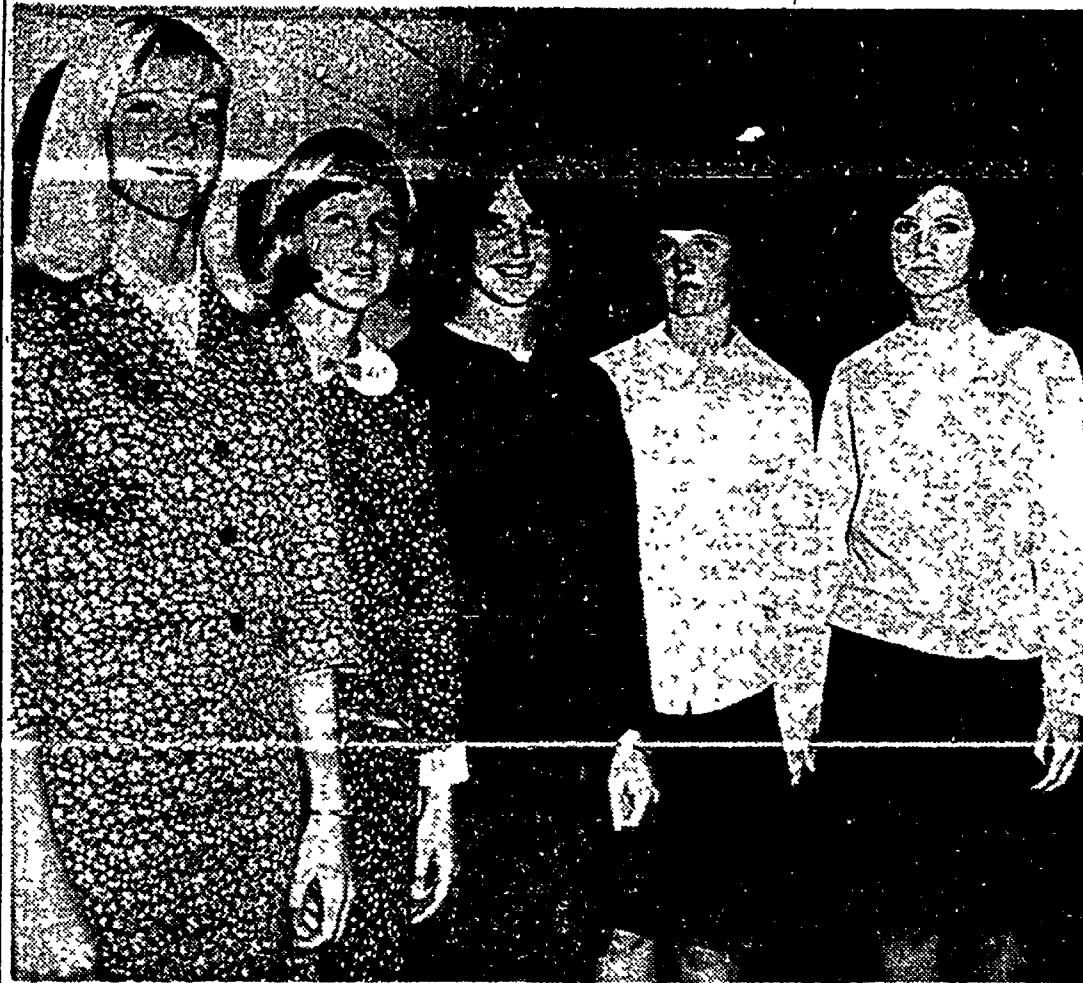

George A. Howden

Chisholm, Superior, Douglas County district attorney since 1951; Fred W. Genrich Jr., a Wausau attorney since 1922 and past governor of the Wisconsin State Bar Association; Vincent J. Lucarelli, a Kenosha attorney since 1933 and official in the Knights of Columbus and Lions International;

Maurice B. Pasch, a Madison attorney and member of the Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin; Angus B. Rothwell, Madison, director of the State Coordinating Committee for Higher Education and former state superintendent of schools, and Ben Sadoff, Fond du Lac industrialist, vice president of the Wisconsin Society for Jewish Learning, a trustee of Ripon College and a scouting leader.

Howden is division engineer for the Wisconsin Telephone

Tigerton Man Named NFO Chairman for Fourth Term

STEVENS POINT—Lawrence Dahl, route 1, Tigerton, was elected to his fourth term as chairman of the National Farmers Organization (NFO), seventh district, here Saturday, at the annual district convention.

More than 250 delegates from the 11 counties of the seventh congressional district elected a slate of new officers, approved a tractor caravan to collect funds for a cheese for Viet Nam program and heard of threats being made against their organization.

Robert Rettig, Withee, a national NFO committeeman, told the delegates opposing bargaining groups are starting to put the squeeze on processors who have signed contracts with the NFO.

Packing Plant
An Iowa packing plant is being forced into bankruptcy by these other organizations by having the firms who are purchasing meat from the packing plant delay payments.

"By having payments delayed, the firm does not have enough working capital and will be forced to close down if added money is not raised," Rettig said. The NFO on a national level is seeking ways to aid the firm in financing, he added.

A similar situation is happening with a dairy in the western part of the state that has a warehouse full of powdered milk but no one is willing to purchase this milk because the firm has a contract with the NFO. "Firms with NFO contracts are being squeezed by outside pressure," Rettig said.

Battle of Giants
"It is getting to the point where the NFO, because of its increasing size can start to control prices of farm products and this is what the opposing bargaining groups fear," Rettig said. "You can look for a battle of the giants and the NFO is one of these giants."

The contracts signed by NFO members when they joined are now being questioned by another group, delegates were told. One officer said he was not worried because the NFO has been threatened before and has always come out on top.

Dahl said the group questioning the validity of the contracts is made up of a group of old NFO leaders who did not climb as high in the organization as they would have liked and are now mad and want to start trouble.

Started Earlier
Norman Myhra, Seventh District Democratic candidate for Congress, addressed the group. Myhra said he is a supporter of the NFO and a believer in collective bargaining. "The one bad thing about the NFO is that it should have been started earlier. Look at what organized labor has done for itself," Myhra said.

Farmers should take an active part in politics because one session of the Legislature or Congress can put the farmer out of business if the wrong kind of legislation is passed, Myhra said.

He said the school lunch milk program should be put on a permanent basis, not year-to-year as it is now being done, and farmers should receive 100 per cent parity for their products.

Elected to district posts besides Dahl were Charles Hoffman, Taylor County, vice-chairman; William Wirtala, Taylor County, treasurer; Raymond Keck, Waushara County, secretary, and Dale Quinell, Adams County, trustee.

Outagamie Value Up 13.22 Per Cent

Towns Assessments Provide Largest Gain in Land Values, Building Figures Are Stationary

Equalized real estate values of Outagamie County's towns, villages and cities increased 13.22 per cent from May 1, 1965 to May 1, of this year according to the state Department of Taxation.

D. J. Sherman, supervisor of assessments, said results of a physical mass appraisal in the county showed major changes occurring in land values. "There hasn't been too much change as far as building values are concerned," Sherman said today in presenting the state's equalized values to the county equalization committee, made up of all supervisors of the county board.

"I believe that our figures are conservative," Sherman said. Total value of real estate and personal property arrived at by state assessors is listed at $728,878,130. Last year's total was $643,701,000.

Real Values
Real estate value constituted the bulk of equalized values, jumping from $564,987,300 to $639,650,500 for 1966.

"The percentage of growth in towns is higher than in cities," Sherman said citing the Town of Grand Chute in particular. "Growth is not occurring in metropolitan areas but in adjacent townships," he said, which applies pressure on the towns and causes land values to increase.

"College Avenue area going west to the highway (U.S. 14) is beginning to look just like downtown Appleton," he said. Consequently the land value has gone up, Sherman added.

"With the tight money situation existing, we don't know if land values will stabilize. What ever happens we are bound to follow," he said defending figures which received some debate from supervisors at the meeting.

Recommend Figures
The county equalization committee voted to recommend the state's figures for adoption by the Outagamie County Board at its October meeting. There were a few dissenting voice votes. Since the equalization committee is made up of the entire county board, adoption of the equalization report is nearly assured.

The state totals will be used to establish full value assessments for the new county budget. The equalization becomes the basis for distributing county tax on a proportionate basis among communities.

There are nearly 100 statutory uses for the equalization figures, more than half of which deal with school administration.

Grand Chute showed the greatest increase of real estate values for a town going from just over $36 million last year to more than $53 million for 1966. The Town of Maine registered the second highest per cent of increase, 44.9 per cent based on a boost from $1.6 million in real estate values in 1965 to about $2.4 million this year.

Appleton real estate equalized values represented more than half the county's total but real estate values increased only 6.07 per cent in the city, according to the report. Total real estate value in Appleton was listed at $302,946,900.

Using the recommended figures, as a basis, each town will pay a portion of county taxes according to its equalized values. According to the state report, the Town of Grand Chute will pay 6.687 per cent of the total. Appleton's share is 49.702 per cent; Kaukauna, Lac County, also was a 11.301 per cent; Village of Kimberly, 6.396 per cent, and the Villages of Little Chute and Combined Locks are listed just over 2.8 per cent each.

Sanatorium Group Meets

Administrators Elect Dr. Russo Vice President

SHEBOYGAN — Dr. John G. Russo, Kaukauna, superintendent and medical director of Riverview Sanatorium, was elected vice president of the Wisconsin Sanatorium Superintendents Association here Friday. The Superintendents' group and the Wisconsin Sanatorium Trustees Association are meeting here jointly.

Dr. Russo also was a member of the committee which recommended tuberculosis (TB) outpatient dispensaries should be continued regardless of the fate of the TB sanatoriums which operate them.

Because medicare rules may have a bearing on the closing or continuing of a sanatorium which is not accredited or certified for medicare patients, the committee urged county boards to solicit the Wisconsin State Board of Health for certification so medicare funds could be obtained.

Roger Sievers, superintendent of Sunnyview Sanatorium in Winnebago County, a joint operation of Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties, also was a member of the committee which prepared the report.

Wausau was picked as the location for the 1967 fall meeting of the two groups.

Police Assure Official Of 'Arrests as Usual'

No Relaxation Because Officers Must Appear in Chilton Court, Chief Says

Appleton Police Chief Earl O. Wolff has given a southside alderman assurance that law enforcement will not be relaxed as a result of a court jurisdiction conflict.

Ald. Robert Ebben (9th) expressed fear earlier in the week enforcement might be downgraded with police tempted to "look the other way."

The alderman's remarks were prompted by a recent announcement that persons arrested in the Calumet County portion of Appleton will have to be arraigned and tried in court at Chilton rather than here.

"I am quite disturbed about this situation," Ald. Ebben told the council Wednesday night. "And so are several residents in the ward who have called me on this matter." The first precinct of the 9th Ward is located in Calumet County.

Ebben said constituents expressed fear officers would relax enforcement rather than have to go to Chilton to arraign violators.

"Enforcement and prosecution will go on as it has in the past," Chief Wolff said.

Wolff said the Calumet County court would be asked to set a time each week for trying Appleton cases.

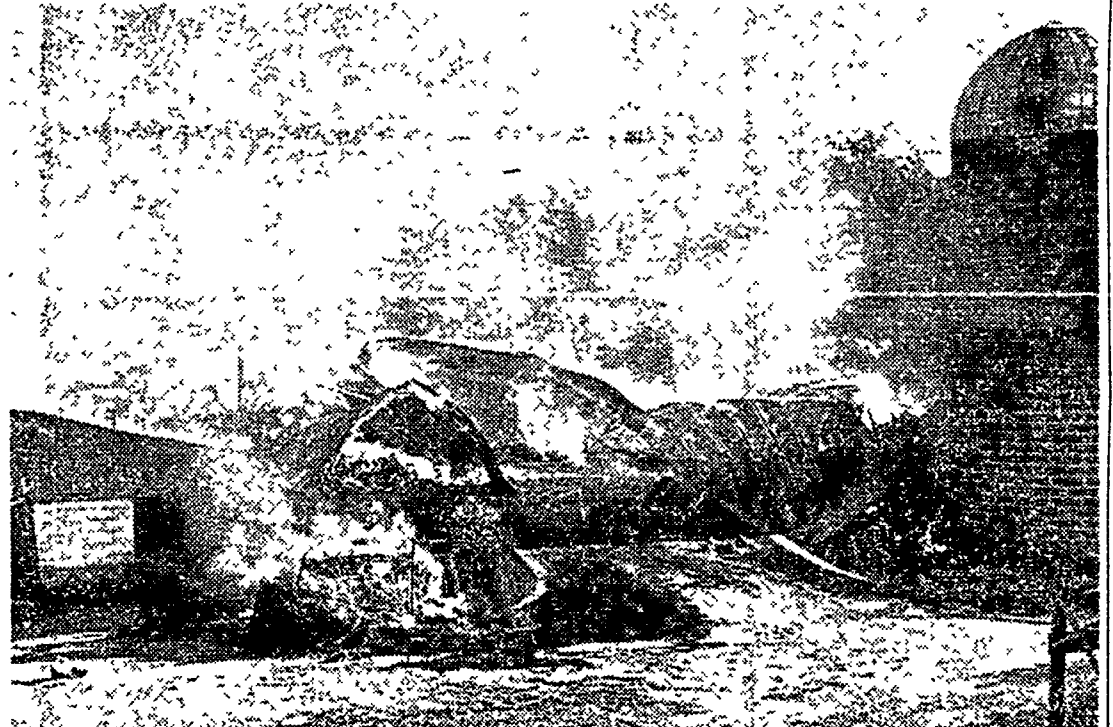

Two Youths Injured at Waupaca

WAUPACA — Two youths, 17 and 18 years old sustained cuts and bruises at 10:40 p.m., Friday, when the car they were riding in struck a utility pole in the 700 block of Lake Street.

Raymond A. Parker, 17, route 4, Sheridan, believed to be a passenger, according to police, had severe facial and neck cuts which required more than 50 stitches. Robert R. Rowe, 18, route 2, Ogdensburg, owner of the car, suffered a cut chin and chest bruises.

The car was traveling south on School Street and made a turn onto Lake Street when it went out of control and struck the pole, police said.

Both youths were taken to Riverside Community Hospital. Rowe later was taken into custody by police and held in the county jail on a charge of driving too fast for conditions. He was to appear in Municipal Justice Court today.

Barn Destroyed By Blaze at Scandinavia

Firemen Save Residence in Another Fire

SCANDINAVIA — Firemen were called to two rural fires Sunday in which a barn was destroyed and a home sustained extensive damage.

Fire was discovered at the Michael Rypan home, five miles southwest of here at 4:15 a.m. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

The barn fire was on the farm of Richard Binley, three miles east of here on County Trunk J.

Fire department authorities said the barn blaze, which broke out at 4:30 p.m., apparently was started with a five-year-old boy playing with matches. Damage was estimated at $8,000.

Barn Engulfed
The barn was engulfed in flame when firemen arrived, according to authorities. The 40 by 80 foot building was empty at the time.

The fire at the Rypan home was caused by a wood burning stove. Firemen said the family was awakened by smoke and was able to leave the building without incident.

The department was called by an eight-year-old daughter, the only member of the family able to speak English.

Damage was confined to two interior walls and smoke and water damage on the first and second floor.

Early Court Hearing Asked for Delinquents

Group Suggests Children's Code Revision To Bring Youth and Parents Before Judge

MADISON — Proposals that young offenders, suspected of committing a felony, be brought before a court within hours of the crimes have been made to a special study committee of the Legislative Council. An immediate hearing would then determine whether sufficient evidence exists to file a warrant.

Proponents of the measure stated such action would enable state laws governing special legal treatment and rehabilitation for youthful offenders to have immediacy to young persons and their parents.

Opponents argued that to compel such actions from youths would require children to face additional court proceedings not required of adult offenders.

No Committee Action
The council committee studying the children's code in an advisory capacity has taken no action on the proposals.

Purpose of suggested additions to the code is to insure that juveniles, and their parents, are promptly confronted in a court with the seriousness of their actions, and to end promptly proceedings if insufficient evidence exists for formal court action. Court action would not necessarily follow, as all present means of handling such cases would be continued.

But in each case in which a felony has been alleged, proponents said the course of the case should rest with a judge, and not with a probation officer, as often happens now.

Should See Judge
"The present practice of (a youth) never seeing a judge or of sitting around for a long time before he does may make the juvenile court system Mickey Mouse to a child," said Professor Donald J. Newman of the University of Wisconsin School of Social Work.

Judge Ervin M. Bruner, of Madison, added, "It does not help respect for the law if a kid violates the law two or three times and only goes before a probation officer rather than a judge."

Requiring a youth to appear before a judge for an initial hearing before the issuance of a petition for proceedings in a case compels the youth to comply with legal proceeding not required of an adult in a similar offense, Judge Howard G. Brown of Milwaukee said.

Aid Heavy Loads
The proposals might aid juvenile proceedings in counties with heavy case loads, said Judge Eugene A. Toepel of La Crosse, but it would not necessarily be of advantage in counties with less of a delinquency problem.

Advisory committee chairman Judge Robert Dean of Wausau said in Marathon county youthful offenders are brought before a judge within 24 to 48 hours after their acts, and that therefore little would be gained from a requirement that children confront a judge within 24 hours.

Bruner said such offenders are not brought before a court rapidly enough under the present system, but under questioning from Dean, admitted under the present children's code delay could be reduced substantially.

Study Proposals
The committee, which will report on possible revisions to the code to the 1967 Legislature in January, decided to study the proposals further before taking action.

In other action the committee voted to make the decision of a request for waiver of jurisdiction to criminal court of a case involving a youth in a felony case appealable directly to the state Supreme Court, rather than to a circuit court. The committee also recommended that youths be required to have counsel, appointed if necessary, at all stages of waiver proceedings.

Consolidation Expected In Escapée's Charges

Outagamie One of Five Counties Issuing Warrants Against Kewaunee Held Prisoner

Outagamie County District Attorney Nick Schaefer said today warrants will be issued against Patrick R. Scott, 28, Sauk Rapids, Minn., charging him with a series of burglaries and attempted burglaries in Outagamie County.

Scott was arrested Saturday morning in Kewaunee County after a high speed, 30-block chase. Scott, reportedly an escapee from a state prison farm at Stillwater, Minn., also is being questioned regarding burglaries in Kewaunee, Green Door and Waupaca counties.

Lt. Jack Zuelzke and Russell Bowers, Outagamie County sheriff's investigators, obtained written statements from Scott Saturday night after his arrest in Algoma. Zuelzke said Scott will deal with "The Kettles in Kettle Moraine." Officers will be installed at 7 p.m.

There will be two evening workshops from 7:15 to 9 p.m. on "Promoting Your PTA" and "Program Resources."

The burglaries Scott admitted occurred last week in Shiocton, Freedom, 12 Corners and Bear Creek, all in Outagamie County, and Bear Creek Corners, Waupaca County.

Set Hearing For Oct. 7

Preliminary Asked By Court-Appointed Attorney for Youth

A preliminary hearing, requested by an attorney for Warren (Pepper) Schroeder, 19, charged with one count of burglary, Friday afternoon was set for Oct. 7 by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Schroeder, of 209 W. Pacific St., who has been confined since Aug. 23, is charged by Appleton police with burglarizing the South Side Service Station, 1623 S. Oneida St., on Aug. 8.

The Appleton youth was arraigned on the burglary charge last Monday at which time he was found indigent and legal counsel was appointed.

Judge Keller Friday ordered that bond be continued at $2,500. Schroeder and Robert V. Krull, 23, also of 209 W. Pacific St., are being held in the county jail in lieu of posting $5,000 bonds each after being charged with attempted armed burglary of the Maritime Tavern Aug. 21. They are awaiting Circuit Court trial on that charge.

Tours Planned

Following the ceremony tours will be conducted and refreshments will be served by the Marion Mothers Club.

The $450,000 building was started early in 1965 by Kucksdorf Construction Co., Leopold, general contractors. It is a two-story building of steel, mortar, and brick, with 16 classrooms.

It is designed so that future additions can be made.

At present there are 365 pupils from kindergarten through sixth grade with space available for 500.

The construction was supposed to be completed by January, 1966 but was delayed late in November and early December of last year by an "informational strike" against the construction company protesting the use of non-union labor. Unionized electricians and plumbers from Tweet Bros. Green Bay and Heitpas Plumbing Co., Little Chute, walked off the project honoring the picketing.

A mutual agreement was reached late in January with Joint School District No. 3 whereby the balance of the contract of the two companies for heating and plumbing work was terminated. They were replaced and the work was completed.

The new school went into service this fall.

Children's Discontent Stems From Casual Arrangements

BY DR. EVE JONES
DEAR DR. JONES: I have two girls, 14 and 9, and somehow I feel they have a longing for more love or feel they have been cheated somehow. Sometimes they tell me something seems lacking, but when I ask what they mean, they say, "Nothing is wrong, forget it."

Their father and I were divorced many years ago and both of us have remarried. Everything is very pleasant between both families. The girls live with me and their stepfather who loves them dearly, but they visit with their father and his wife whenever they like and get along nicely with them, too. So we really can't figure out why they fuss a lot sometimes, as if they were being neglected. How can we tell where the trouble is? MRS. I. E.

If their fussing takes the form of jealousy and fighting between the two of them, deal with that by following the suggestions in my pamphlet, "How to Prevent Jealousy and Fighting."

Perhaps their discontent is caused by having such casual arrangements about seeing their father and step-mother. It might be helpful if you put their visits on a regular basis, for example, every other week-end, so that your daughters are constrained to form their deepest attachments to you and your husband. It's hard to feel thoroughly satisfied unless whole-hearted investments are made.

Also, make certain you, yourself, aren't encouraging vague feelings of dissatisfaction by expressing similar reactions to your second marriage.

The book whose name I am sending you can help you to come to terms with the meaning of your divorce and remarriage for yourself and your children.

DEAR DR. JONES: My sister-in-law says it's all right if her children, 2 and 4 years old, hit her when they are angry because "love and hate are the same emotion and hitting is a child's way of showing love." Do you think she's right or wrong? In our avoid all hitting, but even if I do sometimes smack one of my children, I certainly don't let them hit me. And I don't for a minute think they believe I spank them because I love them. In fact, I'm positive they know I only spank them when I'm extremely angry over something they have done. Is my sister-in-law's idea some new theory or what? MRS. C.S.

Only a confused and self-deceiving person views hostility as proof of love. I suspect your sister-in-law feels terribly guilty over her own feelings of anger and resentment toward her children and thus tries to distort the real meaning of angry actions. Her tactics make her children extra anxious and frustrated. A more constructive approach is to stop all violent action but talk honestly about thoughts and feelings of fear and anger.

LBJ Advisers See Little Chance Of '67 Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top economic advisers to President Johnson say there is little chance of a recession next year.

But one, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, repeated his declaration that a tax increase "is certainly in the realm of probability."

The other, Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said Sunday the danger for next year would be "on the side of too much demand rather than sudden termination of the defense effort in Viet Nam, I see no prospect of a recession in 1967."

Fowler spoke on the ABC television-radio program "Issues and Answers." Ackley appeared on the CBS television-radio program "Face the Nation."

Suharto Regime Hit For Failing to Stop Indonesian Inflation

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Muttering against Gen. Suharto's government broke into the open today with an editorial in a leading paper charging the government had so far produced only promises and no action.

It was the first such attack on the government for failing so far to check the galloping inflation and cost of living. The Jakarta Times warned that if action was not taken soon, the people would lose faith in the government.

Miss Vera Bloedorn, Mrs. Joseph Storino, Mrs. Mary Brooks, Mrs. Leroy Kleist, Mrs. Helmut Krueger and Mrs. John Vechar Jr. assisted Mrs. Habermann with arrangements for the joint meeting.
